Philpott Says Ontario Atty.-General Wanted Silence on Company Failure

Legislature By-election in Hamilton Leads to Sharp Exchanges

Canadian Press
Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 22.—Intention to tell on January 29 and February 9 "the whole story of his (Attorney-General W. H. Price's) attempts over the last week-end to prevent me from making disclosures I made last Tuesday" was expressed to-day by Elmore Philpott, Liberal candidate in the West Hamilton provincial by-election.

Addressing a meeting of Liberal women here this afternoon, Mr. Philpott said he did not propose to say anything further regarding Lieut.-Col. Price's statement yesterday that public discussion of a matter before the courts was a violation of "a principle of British justice." Mr. Philpott's statement was in reply to charges made publicly by Mr. Philpott against the Attorney-General and the administration of his department of the Henry Government with regard to the recent failure and subsequent prosecution of officers of the Stinson brokerage house firm.

In a statement in Toronto yesterday Mr. Price gave it as his view that Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P., Ontario Liberal leader, and Elmore Philpott, Liberal candidate in the Hamilton West by-election, had thrown "into the dirt the first principle of British justice" in discussing a case that is now before the courts.

HOLDING SECOND SESSION POLICE BOARD FRIDAY

Meeting Will Be Held at 3 o'clock in Afternoon in Police Court Room

While no further progress has been reported on the City Council's move to have the Provincial Police take charge of the Victoria force, new developments in the police situation may be expected at the second meeting of the Police Commission to-morrow afternoon.

The meeting has been called by Mayor Anson, for 3 o'clock in the City Police Court room. It will be open to the public.

Although it is understood estimates for the year will be the chief item under consideration at the meeting, some echo of the commission's action at its first meeting last Friday is anticipated. Some hint may be given as to whether further changes in the police force are under consideration.

Holding of the meeting in the court room, a practice not followed for several years, results from a move by the new commissioner, Mrs. Dorothy North, whose resolution to that effect was passed at the last session.

On the other angle of the situation, involving the Council's action, no statement was made to-day.

WAGE CUT FOR THOUSANDS IN AUSTRALIA

Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 22.—The fuel arbitration court here to-day ordered a reduction of ten per cent in basic wages for the year, dating from February 2, as a measure of national emergency to combat the economic depression.

The judgment affects the Victoria, South Australia and Tasmanian Railway services, the Australian Workers' Union with the exception of shearsmen whose wages were reduced recently, timber workers, clerks, engineers, street car employees, carpenters, painters, dockers, the Merchant Service Guild and others.

PILOT WASSON AND BRIDE VISIT CITY ON HONEYMOON

Intimate Story of Burke Hunt Is Told By Wife of Pilot

Mrs. W. J. Barrows, Back in Victoria, Relates Personal Side of North's Aerial Epic; Ill-fated Expedition of Pacific International Airways Company Described; Has Photographic Record of Great Rescue.

One of the "ringsiders" at the epochal aerial search for the late Capt. E. J. "Paddy" Burke and his companions is in Victoria to-day. It is Mrs. W. J. Barrows, wife of Joe Barrows, the Pacific International Airways pilot, who took part in the hunt. Mrs. Barrows returned to the city this week from the north, where she was intimately connected with the rescue party. Mr. Barrows is still in Alaska.

Staying at White Horse, the base out of which Pilot Everett Wasson and the pioneer Joe Walsh operated, Mrs. Barrows carefully followed the search almost from the time it started until its partially successful completion. At her home near Cadboro Bay this morning, she retold the story.

While her husband was at Telegraph Creek, on an expedition dogged by ill-luck, Mrs. Barrows was in constant touch with the search operations, being a close friend of Everett Wasson, who was formerly Mr. Barrows's flying companion.

Sir Isaac Alfred Isaacs is the first native-born Australian to take office as Governor-General of Australia, having been appointed from the bench of the high court, of which he was Chief Justice.

WIND SENDS COLD WAVE INTO NORTH

Mild Temperatures Expected as Southeast Gale Drives Frigid Weather Away

Temperature Drops Predicted For Prairies in Next Thirty-six Hours

While the southeast wind was whistling around the houses of Victoria and beating rain against the windows yesterday evening, it was driving an impending cold wave back into the northland and keeping the weather here mild, it was revealed in the weather report issued by F. Napier Denison of the Gonzales Hill Observatory this morning.

With its centre around latitude 50, approximately 900 miles off the coast of Vancouver Island, a heavy gale, the tail end of which was felt here, raged along the Pacific steamship lanes.

Throughout the night a steady wind of thirty-six miles an hour was blowing in from the southeast. At 8 o'clock yesterday evening it reached its maximum velocity, attaining a speed of forty-four miles. Low pressure was recorded in the area influenced by the gale with ships reporting the barometer down to 28.60 in the storm centre. The mark was a continuation of unusually low levels felt there for some time.

Locally the storm was felt over the Straits of Juan de Fuca and the Gulf of Georgia, where the wind was still disturbing the sea to-day.

MILD WEATHER EXPECTED

Speaking of the storm, Mr. Denison said he expected wind to veer around to the southwest and pass over the province to the north. If it did, continued mild weather might be expected, he stated.

Extreme cold was being felt in the Yukon, Mr. Denison added. In Dawson the thermometer was down to 36 degrees below zero, while frigid temperatures were spreading south through the Alubians.

British Columbia remained mild, but east of the Rockies low temperatures were general. Alberta averaged about 4 degrees above zero, with that mark being registered in Edmonton. Colder weather was predicted within the next thirty-six hours, Saskatchewan was adhering with the mercury down to zero, while in Manitoba it was even lower.

There were no immediate indications of snow or freezing temperatures for Victoria, Mr. Denison said.

FIRE FIGHTING VOTE SET AT LOWER FIGURE

Council Resumes Fight to Keep 1931 Tax Rate Low as Possible

Salaries to Be at Same Level as Last Year; Friendly Help Asks More

With nearly fifty separate votes considered, the City Council sitting as an estimates committee yesterday evening, made a large advance toward completion of a preliminary estimate of controllable expenditures for the year.

The majority of salaries were passed without discussion, indicating the decision of the council, in view of certain tax rate increase, to keep all at the same level as last year with no advances.

Of the main items considered yesterday evening, it was indicated, a saving of about $10,000 would be effected in fire department expenses this year owing to deletion of one or two major items, which will be obtained from funds secured through the fire department equipment by-law.

Found and street lighting votes went through without much argument, although a small increase is imminent in the street lighting department because of improvements planned in cluster lighting on Fort and Douglas Streets. The council attacked the Isolation Hospital vote, and lopped over $2,500 off the preliminary draft, bringing the estimate on a level with last year's expenditure of $10,000.

TO MEET DELEGATION

A delegation from the Jubilee Hospital board will meet the Council Monday night in connection with the yearly grant to the institution. The city already gives the hospital $45,000, but a large increase over this sum will be asked, it is expected.

The Royal Athletic Park and library votes were stood over, but the market appropriation was given a preliminary check at a figure slightly

56 CENTS AS WHEAT PAYMENT IN AUSTRALIA

(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)
Melbourne, Australia, Jan. 22.—It was officially announced to-day the board of the Commonwealth Bank had decided to make available immediately to the wheat pools an advance equaling fifty-fifty cents a bushel on wheat. The Commonwealth Government had requested the bank to authorize as high as seventy-two cents a bushel, but the board declined to advance any such figure.

State aid for wheat growers and farmers generally is under way in Queensland, Victoria and New South Wales.

200 SOLDIERS IN NORTH CHINA FROZEN TO DEATH

Nanking, China, Jan. 22.—Nationalist military headquarters to-day announced 200 soldiers had frozen to death in northern Shansi Province in the last two days. Northern China has been in the grip of extremely cold weather recently.

Locally the storm was felt over the Straits of Juan de Fuca and the Gulf of Georgia, where the wind was still disturbing the sea to-day.

Wants Pocket Money Gifts For Aged Men

Unless forty people in Victoria donate $12 a year a number of venerable citizens in the Old Men's Home will this year go without the welcome $2 a month pocket money, which is just as important to them as Christmas is to a schoolboy. For eight or nine years now Fred Landsberg and James H. Reilly have been organizers of a fund for this purpose.

Every month Mr. Landsberg, in company with a subscriber to the fund, has visited the Home. An envelope is handed to all the non-pensioners containing $2. The few pieces of silver which the old men are able to jingle in their pockets gives them a feeling of independence, since that is worth fifty times the amount. The city supplies six car tickets a month and tobacco. The little cash enables them to be independent of relatives if they have any, for any other small purchases they feel inclined to make on their trips downtown.

"We need more subscribers. It will be a sad day for the old men if we have to tell them we can't raise the money this year," said Mr. Landsberg in appealing for support. He asks subscribers to mail cheques to him at 737 Fort Street, made out to "The Old Men's Home Fund Account."

Considerable uneasiness has also been created among Government workers by persistent reports that the Government's swing to strict economy as announced by Hon. J. W. Jones, the new Minister of Finance, will mean a number of dismissals of civil servants.

The talk of disturbing the civil service has again focused attention on the cabinet, which has the largest number of ministers British Columbia has ever had. The claim is made that should the Government plan economies in salaries it could well start at the fountain head and in any further cabinet re-organization it should be in the direction of reducing the number of ministers.

The men shot and critically wounded one passenger who shouted his alarm as he was herded with the others into the drawing-room of the Florida car.

The petition will be placed in certain stores and it is expected by those in charge of the move that the 2,500 names required will be secured quickly.

The object of the referendum is to settle whether or not the public wishes the Police Commission changed. The proposal is to have the Mayor, senior County Court judge and one commissioner, to be elected, comprise the board.

DENIED HOOVER IS ADAMANT AGAINST PROHIBITION CHANGE

Washington, Jan. 22.—Emphasis was laid to-day by Senator Fess, Republican, Ohio, on the point that President Hoover, in objecting to the Wickham Commission's substitute for the Eighteenth Amendment, had not closed the door to all revision proposals.

Party leaders looked significantly at this statement of Senator Fess, who is chairman of the Republican National Committee and an administration adviser.

The Ohioan, one of the staunch supporters of "stiff" prohibition himself, would not say Mr. Hoover favored any other revision or had any other idea for modification in mind.

"I just simply say," he explained,

"that Mr. Hoover did not close the door to any revision when he rejected this substitute amendment because it would throw prohibition forever into politics."

The Law Enforcement Commission said in its conclusions:

"All the commissioners agree that if the amendment is revised it should be made to read substantially as follows:

"Section 1. Congress shall have power to regulate or to prohibit the manufacture, traffic in or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into the United States and all territories subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes."

Maturities of More Than $1,000,000,000 to Be Met By 1934, He Declares

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Jan. 22.—Canada's financial position was dealt with by Premier R. B. Bennett in a brief speech he made here this afternoon in a delegation from the national council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The real limitation which was imposed on the government was financial, said Mr. Bennett. Canada had maturities of more than a billion dollars to meet by 1934. No country had greater obligations in relation to the size of its population, and it must not be forgotten there was the probability of a deficit of $100,000,000 this year.

MERGER IS OF BENEFIT TO BOTH BANKS

Director of Weyburn Security Bank Says Purchase By Imperial Advantageous Deal

Premier Bennett, Finance Minister, Says Saskatchewan Bank Well Managed

Canadian Press
Weyburn, Sask., Jan. 22.—Questioned regarding the announcement from Ottawa stating that the Weyburn Security Bank, which has its head office at Weyburn, to the Imperial Bank of Canada, had given its consent to a banking deal involving the sale of the business of the Weyburn Security Bank, which has its head office at Weyburn, to the Imperial Bank of Canada, Neil D. McKinnon, a leading director of the Weyburn Security Bank, said negotiations on the part of the Imperial Bank of Canada for the purchase of the Weyburn Security Bank had been carried on for some time. The Imperial Bank, Mr. McKinnon stated, had been anxious for a long time to acquire the business of the Weyburn Security Bank.

BOTH BENEFIT
Beyond stating the deal was a good one from the standpoint of both of the negotiating banks, Mr. McKinnon would not make any further statement. W. O. Powell, general manager of the Weyburn Security Bank, and M. A. Miller, K.C., solicitor for the bank, have been in Calgary since the last week in connection with the sale of the bank. Joseph Mergens Sr., vice-president of the bank, is away from the city for a few days.

Alex Simpson, president of the Weyburn Security Bank for many years, died last summer at Long Beach, California.
THIRTY BRANCHES
The Weyburn Security Bank has thirty branches in southern Saskatchewan located at Weyburn, McTaggart, Stoughton, Assiniboia, Benson, Benegon, Bracken, Buffalo Gap, Coderre, Crowsnest, Creighton, Exton, Goodwater, Griffin, Halbert, Leaven, Midale, Mossbank, McCord, Neville, Oase, Pangman, Readlyn, Radville, Rock Glen, Sham, Tribune, Vantage, Verwood and Yellow Grass.

A statement issued in Ottawa yesterday stating that the purchase of the Weyburn Security Bank by the Imperial Bank of Canada, which was announced last week, was made by Premier R. B. Bennett to-day. Sir George Perley will proceed to Buenos Aires with the delegation to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce aboard the steamship Prince Robert, sailing from Halifax February 21.

FIRE FIGHTING VOTE SET AT LOWER FIGURE

over last year, due to new work of putting in concrete walls there.

CHARITIES UP
The board decided $1,000 off the vote for the Old Men's Home, leaving it to last year's expenditure. Charities grants, totaling $2,325, which would be a jump of nearly $3,000 over last year, were tabled for future consideration. An increase of $2,750 over last year's estimate is asked by the Friendly Help Association, which last year went more than $3,000 over its allotment.

FOUNDED IN 1911
The Weyburn Security Bank commenced business in 1911. Six individuals subscribed and put up the bulk of its original capital stock and the list of shareholders has always been confined to a limited number. Two deaths since the original business of the bank, including that of the president last summer, coupled with the fact that the remaining incorporators are reaching an age where they desire to be relieved of the burden of the bank, have for some time led to the belief that a sale of the bank to one with a wider scope of operations would be desirable in the interests of the bank's customers and shareholders. Recently the advisability of such an arrangement has been emphasized by the abnormal agricultural conditions existing in western Canada.

Evidence in the Department of Finance all goes to show that the bank has from its inception been prudently and conservatively managed.
INSPECTOR'S VIEWS
In a statement, G. S. Thompson, inspector-general of banks, said he considered the purchase "is in the interests of the customers and shareholders of the Weyburn Security Bank, and also a sound progressive step on the part of the Imperial Bank of Canada, and is evidence of their confidence in the recuperative powers and ultimate future of the Middle West."

Under the Banking Act, six weeks' notice must be given to the shareholders of the Weyburn Security Bank of a meeting for approval of the agreement. Following the meeting, the Imperial Bank of Canada must give notice to the shareholders of the Weyburn Security Bank of a meeting for approval of the agreement. The matter being before the Governor-in-Council for final official approval.

SIX BANDITS ROB PEOPLE ON OHIO TRAIN
POSED AS PASSENGERS
The bandits boarded the train either at Toledo or some point between there and Bellefontaine, railroad officials said. The train, headed here, they entered the second sleeping car from the rear, roused the passengers, and at the point of capture drove all into the drawing-room, with the exception of Nelson.

While one of the robbers stood guard, the other went through the car, taking the passengers' valuables. The bandits, after leaving from the train here, were last seen running toward a filling station where it was thought they might have had an automobile waiting.
LOSSES LISTED
The Big Four offices here gave the names of the passengers and the amounts taken from them as follows: E. W. Warner, Cincinnati, $50.00; M. McPherson and wife, Cedar Springs, Ont., $90.00; W. W. Young and wife, Toronto, Ont., not robbed; Mrs. J. G. Darling, Chatham, Ont., $20.00; E. J. Zacharias, Atlanta, Ga., $10.00; Edward Zuchert, valued at $650.00, and $60 in cash.

GANDHI AND ADES MAY BE RELEASED

Reported They Will Be Freed to Confer on New Order
in India

Canadian Press
Delhi, India, Jan. 22.—There was a strong belief in legislative circles here to-day that the Viceroy would soon release Mahatma Gandhi and other leaders of the All-India National Congress party imprisoned for their campaign of civil disobedience, so they might confer together on the situation created by the closing session of the India Round-Table Conference in London outlining British policy in India.
Appeal from Delegates
Pooné, India, Jan. 22.—Mahatma Gandhi to-day received a fervent telegraphed appeal from Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, Srivastava and M. Jayakar, Indian members of the recent Round-Table Conference in London, to return to India. The three men are thought to carry a special message from Mr. MacDonald to Gandhi and the Nationalist organization.

His acquiescence would mean that neither the British Government nor the people of India would know the "Gandhi One" decision as to whether the Nationalist fight for independence is to be carried on or called off until three weeks' hence, when the three men arrive.

CAMPAIGN IS CONTINUED

Allahabad, India, Jan. 22.—The working committee of the All-India National Congress, which initiated the campaign of civil disobedience, to-day decided the campaign would be continued despite Premier Ramsay MacDonald's promise of an eventual qualified Dominion status for India. It was revealed after the meeting that the British authorities had relaxed their enforcement of the ban on Congress meetings for a few days, and were allowing the working committee of the organization all over the country to assemble in order to learn their reaction to the MacDonald pronouncement.

RESOLUTION PASSED
The working committee cabled as follows to the three Indian delegates who attended the Round-Table Conference in London: "Your cable received after the working committee had adopted unanimously a resolution on the situation. In deference to your wishes we will not release it for publication till we meet. In the meantime the Congress programme will continue to be followed."

DESCRIPTED AS CAMOUFLAGE
Nationalist circles have met the report of the Round-Table Conference, just concluded in London, and the announcement of British Government policy with scorn and indignation, claiming Great Britain offers to India only a camouflaged governmental status, retaining the real power at London.

DE BOE JURY HAS TROUBLE
Many Hours' Discussion of Theft Charges in Los Angeles Without Verdict

Associated Press
Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22.—Bewildered by problems of impulsive youth, hapless bookkeeping and the Hollywood off-screen life, twelve elderly men and women to-day resumed deliberation on the fate of Daisy De Boe, charged with the theft of $15,300 from Clara Bow, red-headed film actress.

The seven men and five women jurors, none of whom belong to Daisy or Clara's generation, groped vainly for a verdict yesterday, and yesterday sought to determine from a mass of complex testimony whether Daisy had stolen from the movie actress, whom she formerly served as secretary-confidante.

FRENZIED SPENDING
Glimpses into the private life of the screen flapper and glances at cancelled cheques that told of the frenzied spending of more than $50,000 by the Bow household in less than two years, caught by the jurors as they heard the testimony, added to the problem of the jurors.

If convicted on all the thirty-five counts of grand theft against her, Daisy would face a term of thirty-five to 550 years, should the one-to-ten-year sentences on each count be made to run consecutively.
The jury foreman, Ralph Boynton, asked yesterday evening if it would be necessary for any ballot attempt on counts for the government to be made in the jury room. He was instructed in the affirmative.

BYNG WISHES TO RETIRE AS HEAD OF LONDON POLICE

By Thomas T. Champion,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Jan. 22.—The departure of Sir John Anderson, Permanent Secretary of the Home Office, for the south of France to-day provoked rumors he had gone there to interview Viscount Byng of Vimy, Chief Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police of London and head of Scotland Yard.

Lord Byng, who has not actively carried out his duties for many months on account of ill health, is understood to have expressed a desire to retire from the chief commissionership. The government, it is reported, is unwilling to release the former commander of the Canadian army in France and former Governor-General of Canada from the post.

The position at the moment is extremely difficult for Sir Charles Byng, deputy commissioner, who has been acting for Lord Byng since his illness two weeks ago. To fill both the chief and deputy commissionerships simultaneously would be a matter of extreme complexity.
Questioning will probably be asked in Parliament on the matter, said Lord Byng is sixty-eight years of age. He took over his duties at Scotland Yard in 1928, two years after his return from Canada.

CHILD LOSES LIFE AS FIRE SWEEPS BLOCK

Mother and Two Girls Critically Injured in Blaze in Transcona, Manitoba

Firemen Unable to Force Way Into Room and Save Girl of Four

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Jan. 22.—Little Helen Morrow, aged four years, was burned to death and her mother and two sisters seriously injured when fire today ravaged the Morrow Block, situated in the business section of Transcona, on the outskirts of this city. Mrs. Vincent Morrow, wife of the owner of the premises, and her two daughters, Irene and Lillian, aged fifteen and ten, respectively, lie in a hospital in a critical condition. Awakened by the smoke, Jack Morrow, fifteen, quickly warned the members of the family and turned in an alarm. His father, marshalling the members of his family, led them to safety, feeling secure about his tiny daughter, asleep on the ground floor in a front room.

Returning to the block after placing his family in care of neighbors, Mr. Morrow found the ground floor a raging inferno. The little tot was burned to death before firemen could control the flames and effect an entrance.
All other occupants of the block escaped in their night clothing and practically all their possessions were destroyed.
Origin of the fire is undetermined. An investigation will be held by the authorities.
No estimate of the loss is obtainable.

"I did not fly north," she explained, because, although I planned to do so, I was not alone. I was with a man, not my companion, a Miss Boyd, and myself. We went by steamer.
"We arrived in White Horse just after Everett had made his first trip with Frank Dorbandt. For six weeks we remained there, until after Everett had brought out the survivors, Emil Kading and Bob Marten."

EXCITING TIME

"Although I was only watching, it was certainly exciting," Mrs. Barrows said. "It was the first time I had been in the north and I had my husband in one party and a friend in the other. Every day after that, we talked over reports of the search and heard of the continued failures which met the rescuers."

From a large pile of photographs which showed a great many phases of the search, Mrs. Barrows reconstructed the tale of the adventure. Her story vividly showed the expense, amounting to $3,000 more than that of Quebec and Ontario, which amount to $70,000.

Excitement
"Harry was pinned beneath the wrecked engine and my husband had to pry him loose," she said. "He was the only one near the scene when the crash occurred and Harry was pinned helplessly when he arrived. Taking a rifle, the first thing he saw, Joe managed to get the engine off his legs. Harry had his shoulder blade broken, his wrist broken and his legs paralyzed in the crash. He is now back in San Francisco."

The big Fieseler plane, which visited Victoria only a few days before leaving for the north, sank into the ice of Sawmill Lake, but was later salvaged.

"My husband was taxiing the machine out ready to fly Harry back to White Horse," Mrs. Barrows said. It struck some soft ice in the centre, caused by a spring in the axle and sank right through. Mr. Barrows narrowly escaped."

DUG OUT OF ICE
It took three weeks to dig the big plane out of the lake and it was practically a solid block of ice when finally brought to shore. Then it had to be thawed out. Tents were thrown over it and stoves put underneath. Fortunately the ice in the cylinders of the motor was released without doing great damage.

Blunt was in a temporary hospital at Sawmill Lake, but when the plane was made airworthy, Barrows flew him to Whitehorse, then rejoining his wife. "Instruments on the machine were damaged by the immersion, and my husband had trouble flying it out of Whitehorse," she said. "He caught a touch of rheumatism from his work at the lake and we kept him in bed for two weeks when he got there. Afterwards he flew back to Telegraph Creek and brought out Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lowe, who were more or less marooned there."

PHYSICAL WRECKS
Of the other phases of the search, Mrs. Barrows displayed a wonderful pictorial record. One photograph showed Bob Marten and Emil Kading at their last camp when Walsh and Walsh reached them. Weeks without shelter and without proper food and clothing, had left them practically physical wrecks.

"You would not have recognized Kading an hour after that picture was taken, when he had a shave and a haircut," she said, pointing to one photo. "But for several days after that, they had that glassy look in their eyes, the result of privation and despair."

Mrs. Barrows picked out Wason, Joe Walsh and Kading as the three heroes of the adventure.
TRIBUTE TO WALSH
"Walsh is a wonderful character," she said. "Up in the north his name is almost a tradition. They say that if you give him a gun and bullets, and a blanket, and sent him into the woods, he'll come out with a grub-stake. Everett gives him the greatest credit for success of the hunt. With him in a few minutes after he had landed his plane, Walsh had fire going, tents up and meat ready to cook. When they found Marten and Kading, it was Walsh's knowledge of the woods which

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation; while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is a guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

produced a pair of spruce skills for Kading to mush out on."
But for his love of Paddy Burke, Kading might have mushed to safety sooner than the rescue. Mrs. Barrows said. The party had only one rifle, eleven bullets and one axe, however, and a split meant dividing these up. One section of the party would have suffered. Kading was the hunter for the trio and managed to make most of the bullets count. Once he shot at a moose and missed. Before Burke died, he brought down a caribou, of which there was one leg left when rescue came.

SAW RESCUE PLANE
Kading described it as the "saddest day of my life" when Wason's plane flew overhead to the place where Burke's plane was stranded with a broken propeller. Mrs. Barrows said. Twice the survivors saw the machine go by and had practically resigned themselves to fate.
Mrs. Barrows described how it had been the plan of Burke, after leaving the damaged plane, to mush up the Liard River to Lower Post, where they knew safety lay. Unused to the woods, they made only slow progress and Burke's strength finally gave out. Had they but known, there was an Indian settlement only thirty miles from where the plane came down.

Spain Students Want Republic
Madrid, Jan. 22.—Disorders broke out among students at the University of Madrid to-day. Leaders in fiery addresses demanded the establishment of a republic in Spain. Despite the continuation of martial law, proclaimed during recent revolutionary attempts, about 3,000 student members of the University Scholars' Federation struck as a protest against the Bercegovia Government. Meetings were held in the university buildings and the monarchy was denounced.

SWEEEPING CUTS TO AFFECT ALL B.C. SERVICES

cranks, he was investigating the possibility they were racketeers.
At present British Columbia, with 600,000 population, has a mark over 300,000 population. Its cabinet after a long session, has decided to reduce its travelling expenses, amounting to $3,000 more than those of Quebec and Ontario, which amount to $70,000.

BUSINESS HIT
Business houses in Victoria are feeling the effect of the unbusinesslike many Government employees curtail expenditures in view of the current hanging over them and criticism has been levelled at the Government for its present intention to embark upon a drastic policy of cutting expenditures and unsettling workers at a time when their action will most stimulate depression. They say that while private firms are making sacrifices to carry their workers over the temporary slack times, the Government should be in a better position to do so.

The action is also sharply contrasted with the initial acts of the government in bringing many new men into the Civil Service at higher salaries and even before being paid and waiting in many cases the system of promotion within the service.
REVENUES DOWN
Excluding the extra cost of operation of the Liquor Control Board when the three-man $50,000 board was created to replace the $12,000 one-man board, revenue from this source is considerably below that of previous years, through the big drop in sales, and economies, which may hit at the employees are scheduled. The Christmas hamper, sales, through which thousands of dollars worth of samples were disposed of, helped swell the falling revenues, still less far behind that of the previous year.

Timber royalties are also below those of the previous year and there are also prospects of a drop in timber licenses, as some operators may release their holdings in view of the depression in the industry. Revenues of the Mines Department have likewise dropped and the first intimation of economy in this department is a notice that the course of lectures to buyers will be curtailed. These will be, to a great extent, left to mining engineers, and the services of the special lecturers, usually employed, will be dispensed with.

The removal of Hon. W. C. Shelly from the Finance Department and the transfer of Hon. N. S. Lougheed from the Public Works Department to the Lands Department was generally accepted to be mainly a move to check the heavy expenditures which marked the early days of the Conservative Government and are now creating uneasiness. Some of the lectures of Mr. Lougheed, once accepted with enthusiasm by his colleagues, do not appear so rosy as time for drafting the budget draws near. His brain child, the arterial highway system, has meant huge expenditures which, while they have been welcomed in many districts, have brought a lot of grief to the government. The system is also under fire from a transportation point of view. Some of the franchisees have been given. A recent delegation of Vancouver Island motor transportation men claimed that the system threatened to put them out of business. The government's revenue from the gross earnings of motor transport companies using the arteries is also reported to be not so great as Mr. Lougheed anticipated.

FRUIT GROWERS
REJECT EVANS
REPORT TO-DAY
Kelowna, B.C., Jan. 22.—The final session of the Fruit Growers' Convention here was climaxed this forenoon by a complete rejection of the Sanford Evans report. A resolution was unanimously adopted to the effect that members of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association were disappointed and dissatisfied with the report of Commissioner Evans and that they recommended any reliance by the government on recommendations formulated without previously taking any evidence or making any real investigation.

The report was characterized by E. J. Chambers, president and general manager of the Associated Growers, as the opinion merely of an individual. As to the question of central selling, he said he found himself between the devil and the deep sea. On one hand he was charged with not being in favor of central selling because he would lose his present job with the co-operative. On the other hand he was charged with favoring it because he might get a better job with the new organization. But he spoke as a grower, because it was as a grower he was primarily interested. He supported the plan for central selling.

Fred Cox, the newly elected vice-president of the B.C.F.G.A., reviewed the whole train of events that led up to the report of central selling on the stage in Kelowna, was in New York visiting friends.

BANK HEADS HOME BURNED IN WASHINGTON

Canadian Press
Washington, Jan. 22.—Representative W. B. Bankhead of Alabama early to-day were carried to safety down a ladder from their blazing home in Nineteenth Street here. The flames shot up from the freezing weather, they were unharmed. Their daughter, Miss Telulah Bankhead, who recently returned to this country after attending stardom on the stage in London, was in New York visiting friends.

U.S. EXCLUSION
STIRS JAPANESE
SAYS SHIDEHARA

Acting Premier, Addressing Diet in Tokio, Talks of Bar to Migration

Associated Press
Tokio, Jan. 22.—The United States Exclusion Act, aimed directly at the Japanese, is very much a live thorn in the side of Japan and is sinking deeper and deeper, Baron Kijuro Shidehara, Foreign Minister and Acting Premier, emphasized yesterday in addressing the Diet at its reopening after the New Year recess.

The baron reviewed advancement toward peace due to the London Naval Disarmament Conference, which, he said, had done much to solidify international amity, touched on Far Eastern affairs, and then came to United States immigration restriction.

Speaking slowly and deliberately, the baron said it was a question which "for seven years has been weighing heavily on popular sentiment here."

"We shall watch further developments of the question with impassioned interest," he declared.

NOT IN QUOTAS
The restriction law excludes from the regular United States immigration quotas Japanese and Chinese, admitting them only as students and in other special classifications.

Baron Shidehara addressed the Diet in the absence of Premier Yuko Hamaguchi, seriously wounded last November 14 by an assassin.

The present session of the Imperial Diet, the national legislature, convened last December 24. Emperor Hirohito read the receipt formally opening the session December 25, and the Houses adjourned for the long New Year holiday. The session probably will last until late in March.

Quebec Premier Predicts Surplus
Quebec, Jan. 22.—Following what he described as the middle course, not taking a pessimistic view nor being too optimistic, Premier Taschereau, in his capacity as Acting Provincial Treasurer, brought down the budget in the Legislative Assembly of Quebec yesterday.

The estimates covered the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, a date eighteen months away, the Premier observed, and anticipated a surplus of $150,786.81. Estimated receipts were placed at $38,893,837, and expenditures at $38,743,050.76.

The Premier promised a reduction of municipal road taxes and relief from repayment of money advanced for construction of roads; payment of one and one-half per cent of the interest on farm loans, and full indemnity for farm animals killed in the eradication of tuberculosis. He also mentioned other proposed tax amendments, including a reduction in succession duties.

THIS END OF WEDGE
Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 22.—For years this little island has held out against the use of automobiles for any purpose, but the Provincial Assembly yesterday passed on second reading a bill which would permit the use of motor cars by physicians.

The vote was 20 to 8 in favor of the measure. It must pass on a third and final reading before it becomes a law.

CONTROVERSY
PROHIBITION

Wickersham, Commission Chairman, Denies Hoover Influenced Its Report

Washington, Jan. 22.—The Wickersham commission's report with its varying conclusions for revision, repeal and retention of the Eighteenth Amendment churned up additional controversy today. There was before the Senate a resolution to inquire if the commission had been unduly influenced into changing its opinion at the last minute.

Senator Tydings of Maryland, a Democratic anti-prohibitionist, yesterday introduced a measure calling for a Senate inquiry to determine how the commission had arrived at its "conflicting conclusions" and whether advice had been received from outside.

Reports the President had intervened brought a thirty-three-word statement of denial from Commission Chairman Wickersham yesterday. Immediately afterward he locked his doors to newspapermen.

His statement read: "The statement this morning in The Washington Herald that the President had introduced this commission to abandon a tentative recommendation in favor of revision of the Eighteenth Amendment is absolutely untrue and without foundation."

NO WHITE HOUSE STATEMENT
At the White House it was said there would be no statement on the matter, either of denial or of affirmation.

The combined commission report, signed by ten of the eleven members, set forth a draft of a suggested revision of the amendment with an "if" in front of it and a statement the members were divided in opinion.

Six of the eleven, however, said in their appended statements that they favored either revision or repeal and at least two referred to revision as if the full commission was understood by them to approve of it.

A silence as baffling as that which hid the long deliberations of the commission shut out any peep into the manner by which the conclusion had been drawn up.

In Richmond, Henry W. Anderson, who presented a proposed substitute for the present system of prohibition, said the report as a whole "favors modification of the Eighteenth Amendment."

Judge William S. Kenyon, in St. Louis, issued a statement yesterday joining Chairman Wickersham in denying Mr. Hoover had influenced the commission in formulating its report.

POLITICAL EFFECT
Much discussion in Washington also centered around the political effect of the President's definite stand against repeal or revision.

Statements came from two prohibition organizations saying those favoring prohibition would rally to the standard which the President has raised.

One, from the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, said the President "has aligned himself squarely behind the American home."

College Forestry Courses Scored
Fredericton, N.B., Jan. 22.—Existing courses of forestry instruction were severely criticized here yesterday by W. Kiebaugh of Iroquois Falls, Ont., at the session of the twenty-third annual convention of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers.

In the interest of forest education Mr. Kiebaugh advocated extension of the course to five years and elimination of many subjects and axioms of the need for specialization. He suggested more attention should be paid to English and kindred subjects. He also stressed the need for more attention to engineering and less to natural science.

The convention will close this evening.

Vatican City, Jan. 22.—The memory of Pope Benedict XV, who died nine years ago after a reign that included nearly the entire period of the Great War, was honored today at a solemn requiem mass sung in the Sixtine Chapel, in the presence of Pope Pius XI, his successor, Tommaso Boglietti officiated.

STREET RAILWAY DISCUSSION

Winnipeg, Jan. 22.—A decision to recommend to the city council that the city give no notice to buy the Winnipeg Electric Company's street railway system this year was reached yesterday by a special city committee on transportation. One year's notice of intention to take over the system is necessary under the by-law and, if the council accepts the committee's recommendation, the Winnipeg Electric Company's franchise automatically will be renewed for five years.

Mass Meeting In Toronto as Protest
At Police Action

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 22.—Charging the police of Toronto "not only enforce the law but attempt to make it," the executive of the Fellowship of Reconciliation plans to call a public meeting of protest against police action in refusing to permit a meeting of the fellowship, which it had been announced would debate the pros and cons of earlier police action against Communist gatherings.

The date of the meeting, which the fellowship officials declare will be held in Massey Hall, one of the city's largest auditoriums, has not been made public as yet.

Announcement of the meeting of protest is the latest incident in the long-standing feud of Communists and the police of Toronto, though the Fellowship of Reconciliation denies Communist sympathies.

NEW CRUISERS
DECLARED WEAK

London, Jan. 22.—Sir William Berry, former director of naval construction for the British Admiralty, to-day expressed the opinion fifty of the 10,000-ton cruisers built or being built under treaty limits by naval powers would not be fit fighting machines.

In his opinion these cruisers will be inadequately protected, so that one well-placed salvo of shells would put them out of commission. He said too much had been sacrificed to speed and gun power, and he urged that future cruisers of the treaty type should be slower, shorter and better protected.

TOO MANY PESSIMISTS

FROM SOME OF THE JEREMIADS TO which a suffering world has recently been treated, it might well be supposed that the present economic recession is likely to last for years to come; that conditions may go indefinitely from bad to worse; and that our economic system is threatened with a general breakdown. It should be said in plain terms, we read in The Monthly Review issued by the Bank of Nova Scotia, that none of these statements is true. The present situation is no more severe than depressions were in days gone by. "Relatively to them," the bank's statement goes on, "it has not lasted unduly long; nor is our economic system as a whole in any sense endangered."

During the past century the world has experienced a series of industrial upheavals at intervals of from three to ten years. Some of them have been comparatively mild—some very severe. But the Bank of Nova Scotia tells us that evidence is not lacking to show that a number of them were at least as severe as the present recession, and lasted as long or longer. Each one, however, was followed by a recovery—by a recovery which generally made its appearance at the moment when it was least expected. The bank's review then concludes:

These are instances, not of difference, but similarity between the present and the past. The suggestion may, perhaps, be made that the principal difference between the present situation, and analogous situations in the past, is our almost complete awareness of the mishaps that have befallen other nations.

The newspapers from day to day keep their readers informed of conditions in Britain, the United States, Germany, the South American republics, Australia, Japan and China. Wherever there are distressed markets, a knowledge of them is immediately spread by cable and wireless over the whole world. As a result of their knowledge of the difficulties existing in other countries, many business men are indulging in exaggerated pessimism. If we recall the condition of exaggerated optimism that prevailed in 1929, which was so mischievous, we may successfully resist the contagion of exaggerated pessimism now.

At the present moment, of course, the least helpful contributors to the discussion of business conditions in Canada are those publicists—and they may be found in every country—who are trying to make out that the situation as it exists to-day is unique, both in the degree to which business has been curtailed, and in the prospect of fresh evils to come. Their general crestfallen attitude is not warranted, while it acts as a psychological factor which works detrimentally in many ways. This is the time for the exercise of reason and not for the indulgence of extreme views.

MR. BENNETT ECONOMIZES

PREMIER BENNETT IS TO BE COM- mended for his edict which will deprive Ministers and Deputy-Ministers of automobiles purchased and operated at the public expense. All who desire the luxury must find the money for it, or if a car is necessary for the transaction of public business, Ministers or their deputies may hire a taxicab and charge it up to the government.

What Ministers of the Crown, or their deputies, do with their own private means is their own business. But it is permitted for the public to suggest that members of the Dominion cabinet and their departmental chief lieutenants are paid sufficiently to allow them to run automobiles of their own if they find their use necessary or convenient. These are not times, however, for needless expenditure from the public treasury. Running the government of Canada is a costly enough business—and there is a national debt hanging over the country amounting to more than two billions of dollars. Mr. Bennett could not very well preach economy unless he practiced it wherever possible.

SITTING ON THE BULGE

TWO YEARS AGO MR. PAUL WAR- burg, the distinguished United States financier, warned the frantic speculators of Wall Street that they were riding for a fall. It took a great deal of courage to say that in the times of the bull market and Mr. Warburg got no thanks for his advice. For more than a year now Wall Street has known that Mr. Warburg was right, but that does not help much in the present difficulty.

Lately, however, Mr. Warburg has been analyzing the causes of disastrous bull markets, and proposing definite remedies for them. In the first place he makes a keen analysis of the business recession, common to nearly all countries last year. He says that this was due largely to a foolish attempt to maintain prices in the face of economic facts.

"Instead of permitting increased machine production and cheap credit to lead to lower prices," he says, "all efforts were bent to rest our economic structure upon a level of high prices. When the purchasing power of domestic consumers threatened to become exhausted, it was revived by the stimulant of instalment plans, and buyers abroad, at the end of their tether, were assisted by foreign loans. When the consumers' credit became exhausted, the critical moment came when production overwhelmed manipulation. Prices, overcoming artificial dams, began to seek their own levels."

How to prevent such inflation and over-production in the future, how to "sit on the bulge," is the vital question. Mr. Warburg confesses that this "forms a subject of study for psychologists rather than economists," for "how long, in industry and commerce and finance, does the memory of painful experiences prevent human greed and conceit from regaining control?" In other words, will the public, warned by recent events, invest and spend more sanely during the next wave of prosperity?

Mr. Warburg is not very confident on that score.

He thinks something may have to be done to save the public from itself. "When human minds forget and when new and inexperienced generations believe they may disregard tried economic laws," he says, "central banks must act as the collective memory of the communities they serve, and as their restraining conscience of an ever-youthful, adventurous and ingenious, but property-mad, mankind."

UNWANTED BUSINESS

ACCORDING TO THE FINDINGS OF the Wickersham Commission, whose first report now is before the United States Congress, the Canadian law which prevents the direct export of liquor from this country to the United States has not cut off supplies—obtained in greater quantities from the French islands, St. Pierre-Miquelon—nor do government officials at Ottawa dispute the statement. These officials, incidentally, are recalling that they told the late government that the ban on exports would not materially reduce the volume of wet goods which still would reach the neighboring republic. They also estimate that the federal treasury is losing about $14,000,000 a year in excise duty.

It will not be surprising if certain interests seize upon this revelation as an argument in support of abolishing the law which bans liquor exports, so as to give the government the receipts from excise duty. But a dispatch from Ottawa says Mr. Bennett has made it clear that he holds to the view of the former ministry—that the government should not be a party to a traffic which violates the law of a friendly country. In this attitude the Prime Minister has the support of the great majority of the Canadian people. Canada can not interfere, of course, with the traffic in liquor which St. Pierre-Miquelon traders conduct with rum runners. Much better that she do without the $14,000,000 a year than get mixed up again with a business which made a great part of the international boundary the headquarters for crooks of all kinds.

BRITAIN LEADING

THERE IS AT LEAST ONE INDUSTRY in Great Britain which is not in a depressed condition, and that is the aircraft industry. The Daily Express says the Old Country took such a lead in the export of aircraft in 1930 that the rest of the world was nowhere in the picture. Nor was the lead confined to any one particular type of machine. It extended to all—military, commercial, and light airplanes; while this year it is confidently anticipated the lead will be maintained and increased still further.

This record obviously is a fine achievement for British designers and British engineers, who, by the way, have been very efficiently backed up by British pilots, both men and women. The unfortunate blot on British aviation history last year, of course, was the terrible disaster which befell the R-101, with the loss of forty-eight lives. The only consolation obtained from that tragedy is the lesson it provided for future guidance.

A THOUGHT

Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.—Psalm xxxiii. 4.
The chief secret of comfort lies in not suffering trifles to vex us, and in prudently cultivating an undegrowth of small pleasures, since very great ones are let on long leases.—Aughay.

"CAN THE GOVERNMENT LIVE?"

The Manchester Guardian

Mr. MacDonald has learnt his lesson too well. He remembers that he must not try to dictate; he forgets that it is still his duty to govern. For what purpose does his government still hold office? What does he really believe that it can do or attempt which will be brave and defensible and go to the country upon its? The government must die shortly unless it can produce not only a programme but faith. Without faith of some kind it will potter along to an early and ignominious defeat at the next general election. Most important of all is faith in itself. It must have confidence. It must not be so apologetic and bow to every wind that blows. It ought not to leave the date of the election to the accident of time and temper (as in 1924), but should set its course knowing that if an election comes, it will then be on issues declared by itself.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES, JAN. 22, 1906

During the last few days twenty or thirty farmers from Manitoba and the northwest have arrived in Victoria. They are here as a result of the cheap rates inaugurated by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company during the winter months at the instance of the Tourist Association.

The interest in the Kalen Island land deal continues to attract chief attention among the legislators. This is not confined to the opposition, but among the government supporters there are members who regard the transaction with grave suspicion.

The first cargo of lumber loaded at Nanaimo for many years is that just put on board the American schooner Charles E. Holmes, which will clear for Mexico to-morrow.

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Moderate to fresh southerly winds, unsettled and colder, with rain or snow.

The C.P.R. steamer Princess Beatrice will be taken off the Victoria-Seattle run on January 31, and the company will cease to operate a steamer on the route until May 16, when the liner Princess Victoria will be commissioned on the triangular route between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle—a 340-mile trip which must be covered daily.

Although scheduled to sail to-morrow for Yokohama and Hongkong, the R.M.S. Empress of Japan will not leave port until Wednesday next. The delay has been caused by the non-arrival of the English mails which were delayed by rough weather while coming across the Atlantic.

Loose Ends

A consideration of apples leads into distant fields of thought—Very profound—Very complicated—and extremely dull.

By H. B. W.

UP IN THE Okanagan Valley, where everything seems so peaceful, there is more trouble here than in any similar area I have ever heard of. At this particular moment there is more trouble in the Okanagan than there ever has been before. An investigator named Sanford Evans, employed by the provincial government, has just reported that the Okanagan should scrap its elaborate system of marketing, under which fruit prices are fixed by law, and a man must not sell his apples at any other price on pain of serious punishment. Now that is no direct concern of ours, and not knowing anything about this system, I have no opinion of it; but the scientist, every day, behind all this trouble are universal. And almost universally evaded.

IT IS a rather good thing, I think, that the Okanagan should have brought this marketing system under focus, where all men can see it. For having seen it, perhaps they will clarify their own minds, which of late have been very foggy about these things. The issue in the Okanagan, of course, is supposed to relate to apples, but actually it relates to the question of the real issue, as clarified by the present apple situation, is whether a man can do what he likes with his property, regardless of his neighbor, or whether the state should direct him in its use; whether the old ideas of personal liberty shall remain, or whether, in the interests of the majority, the individual must sink his individuality and take his chance with the tribe.

IT HAPPENS that the Okanagan has come suddenly upon this alternative in a tangible and rather uncomfortable fashion, but what the Okanagan is experiencing in one form to-day the rest of us will be facing in some other form to-morrow. It is apples to-day. It may be biscuits, pianos, or columns like this next week. But the other thing that rules the politics, the oceans of economic theory and the eccentricities of international exchange, two schools of thought are crystallizing on this question everywhere. One school holds that business by itself, if left alone, will pull us out of our difficulties and assure our future. The other holds that rules, competition won't work in a complicated civilization, that the state must guide business for the general good, which, whether you like it or not, the state has started to do in most countries on an astounding scale. The real danger to civilization is not the man who points out the defects of the rules, but the man who is usually regarded on one side as a hopeless reactionary and on the other as a dangerous fanatic. The real danger to civilization is the politician and the voter who don't see the issue at all, and go on tinkering with economic laws, like a fellow trying to repair a fiver in the dark.

THE TROUBLE in such matters is that we are too practical. We are so practical in politics that by looking for immediate results, and neglecting the larger principles behind, we end up in utter impracticability. We haven't any confidence in principles any more. Even if we had, we are too impatient to wait for principles to work out into inevitable results, in that curious fashion that principles have. And having floated principles, and attempted to join together two conflicting economic theories by some jumblecrack statute, we are surprised when the whole thing collapses about our ears.

AS MR. O. K. CHESTERTON said the other day, "We have had about enough of the purely practical politician. He has been tested by his own test; he has been tested by his own test; he has been tested by his own test. The opportunist has had his opportunity. Garden City

The committee of Garden City Women's Institute held their regular card party in the Marigold Hall on Monday evening. The highest scores were won by Mrs. Shingleton and Mr. Hunt; second, Mrs. Hooper and Mr. Lynford; consolation, Mrs. Gosnell and Mr. Irving. Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. Whitaker were tea hostesses with Mrs. Girton as convener.

HIS RHEUMATISM ENDED; IS FILLED WITH NEW VIGOR

Think of the medicine that is so strengthening and invigorating that it seems to pick you right up and put you back on your feet from the first few doses. Such a medicine is Sargon.

ARCHIBALD PIPPIN

gon. Read the case of Archibald Pippin, 391 Elgin Ave., Winnipeg, who said:

After the great change Sargon made in my health I don't see how it could fail to help anyone. I had rheumatism so bad all through my back I could hardly stoop over or walk. I also suffered years with indigestion and constipation. Sargon got me over these troubles and gave me a feeling of strength and vigor. I haven't had before in years. Sargon Pills regulated my bowels without upsetting me in the least. I couldn't have hoped for better results than I've gotten from this wonderful treatment.

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores; in New Westminster from the New Drug Co.; in Esquimalt from Fulmer's Drug Store; in Oak Bay from Charles Hudson; in Sidney, Vancouver Island, from Sidney Pharmacy; and in Nanaimo from Kennedy's Drug Company.

Increase In School Tax Rate Indicated In Estimate Draft

Tentative Figures Set at $512,021, Against $487,203.45 Last Year; Increase of $24,818 Expected to Send Rate Up Over Half a Mill; Falling Off in Revenue From Saanich Affects Balance.

An increase of approximately $24,818 over the school estimates of last year was indicated in the tentative expenditures drafted by the City School Board at its meeting yesterday evening. Although subject to revision at later meetings, the amount drawn up indicated the school tax rate would be approximately one-half mill higher than in 1930. The total estimates for the year were roughly set at $512,021, against $487,203.45 last year.

Chief cause for the increase was seen in the drop in receipts from Saanich, where the creation of a municipal high school two years ago cut the revenue from that municipality from $27,120 in 1929 to $15,600 in 1930 and $8,400 in 1931.

To offset this to a certain extent, the board will be able to call upon the Provincial Government for the sum of $1,200 promised by that body and earmarked for technical school expenses.

REPAIR ESTIMATES UP
Repairs, replacement and the upkeep of grounds were estimated to cost Victoria approximately $2,000 more this year than last, while teachers' salaries showed an increase of $12,553 above the 1930 amount.

Small increases were also shown for sundry services, domestic science, technical school, medical and dental inspectors' salaries, buildings and grounds and superannuation.

Cuts were proposed in the cost of janitors' supplies, furniture and apparatus, reference books and insurance. None individually showed reductions of more than $500.

Speaking of the second largest increase, Trustee W. C. Moresby noted that the repair, replacement and upkeep work around the city schools had been postponed for several years. The longer it was left the more expensive it was becoming, he said.

After drawing up the tentative estimates, the budget was laid on the table.

SWIMMING MAY BE COURSE IN CITY SCHOOLS

The advisability of including a short course in swimming in the curriculum of city public schools will be considered by the Victoria School Board and principals from all institutions in the city as the result of a proposal made in writing to the board at its meeting yesterday evening, by A. H. Conlshaw, manager of the Crystal Garden.

George Deane, inspector of schools, to the board of the success of campaigns carried on by the Y.M.C.A. free of charge to the city at two years and said that the matter was well worth attention. While the course cut into studies of the children he felt it well worth the cost.

In his letter Mr. Conlshaw guaranteed to teach the children to swim in ten lessons and offered terms of fifteen cents a lesson for each pupil, with the students furnishing their own suits and towels.

Trustee J. L. Beckwith moved that the matter be taken up with the principals of the schools.

Sooke

Improvements are being made to the Sooke Road from the intersection of Whiffen Spit Road to the end of the main highway. The road has been widened to eliminate dangerous curves. A tractor is being used to clear stumps and rocks and graveling is being done.

The Y.M.C.A. gymnastic team gave a display on Saturday evening in Charter Hall, under the auspices of the Sooke Athletic Association. Wrestling and a "strong man" act were followed by basketball. The Sooke Intermediates defeated the Y.M.C.A. 23-22 in a hard and fast game. The Sooke Seniors lost to Otter Point 24-7. Refreshments were served by members of the committee of the Sooke Athletic Association, and dancing followed, music being supplied by the Y.M.C.A. orchestra.

Mrs. Louis George entertained on Wednesday evening in honor of her daughter Alice, the occasion being her birthday. Games and dancing were enjoyed and refreshments were served. Among those invited were Helen Shields, Evelyn and Irene Clarke, Molly Richardson, Margaret Baxter, Mabel George, Marvin Baxter, Ralph Fontaine, Leonard Muir, Byron Chartier, Alex. Richardson and George George.

A whist drive was held at the Belvedere Hotel last evening under the auspices of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute.

Adjutant J. Sharp of the Salvation Army will give an illustrated lecture, entitled "Around the World," this evening in Sooke Hall.

NEW CLASSES FOR VICTORIA MUSIC FESTIVAL

Seven Sections Covering Wide Field Added to Syllabus For May Meeting

As the Victoria Musical Festival Association has been formed for the purpose of developing and stimulating a love for and an appreciation of music and allied arts, the executive has, for the forthcoming festival in May, added many new classes to an already large syllabus.

SEVEN SECTIONS

In the new syllabus, obtainable at all local music houses, are seven sections as follows:

Choral classes: Adult, classes 1 to 9; junior, classes 10 to 24.

Vocal classes: Adult, classes 25 to 40; junior, classes 41 to 52.

Instrumental classes: Piano-forte and organ classes, 53 to 74; strings, classes 75 to 100; winds, classes 101 to 106; orchestras and bands, classes 107 to 111.

Original compositions: Classes 112 to 115.

Polk dancing: Classes 116-124.

Motion: Classes 125 to 134.

Poster design: Classes 135 to 136.

EARLY ENTRIES URGED

The syllabus has been very carefully arranged for the convenience of the contestants and the executive of the association desire to make an earnest appeal to all prospective competitors to file their entries as soon as possible, so as to avoid a last minute rush of work being thrown upon the officers of the association.

In section one, choral classes, adult, two interesting competitions have been added, class 5 for commercial choral societies, and class 9 for madrigal ensemble, not to exceed ten adult voices. It is the hope of the executive that these two new classes will be well supported.

JUNIOR CHORAL CHANGES

The junior choral section has undergone great alterations and classes 10 to 17 have been allotted to public school classroom choirs. This arrangement should be of great benefit to the pupils of grades 3 to 8 as a seventy-five per cent of the pupils in a classroom will form the choir.

The choir, whether it be from grade 3, 4 or 5, which obtains the highest standing will receive the Victoria School Trustees Challenge Shield. In the same manner the leading choir of grades 6, 7 and 8 will receive the Union Club Challenge Shield and the leading choir of grades 9 and 10 will be awarded the David Spencer Limited Challenge Shield.

Souvenir ribbons will be presented to the members of all winning groups in junior choral and band classes.

In addition to the George Watson Memorial Cup will be awarded to the choir which gives the most artistic rendering of a test piece in these junior choral classes 10 to 24, both inclusive.

COMPOSITE SCHOOL CHOIRS

A new class for public school composite choirs has been arranged, and contestants will compete for the George Jay Challenge Shield.

Small junior choirs have also been provided for by a new class 24.

JUNIOR VOCAL ADDITIONS

In the junior vocal section are two new classes, which should prove very popular. During the last festival, boys under thirteen competed against girls under thirteen in a very large class. The additions now provide for a boys' competition and a girls' competition. These little vocalists are to be accompanied by a boy or girl under thirteen years.

A trio class for girls, boys or mixed, under sixteen years, has also been added.

The test pieces for all these classes have been very carefully chosen, and the criticisms and advice, which will be available from the able adjudicators, who are coming, will be of great value to these young artists.

INSTRUMENTAL SECTION

Many new classes have been added to the strings, wind, orchestra and band sections. The purpose of the executive in these additions is to develop in Victoria greater interest in instrumental music, which eventually will give rise to the successful organization of symphony orchestras, both adult and juvenile.

A new section has been devoted to original compositions, both vocal and instrumental, and these classes provide for both amateurs and professionals.

FOLK DANCING

The folk dancing section has been rearranged under a scheme, which, it is hoped, will give general satisfaction, whilst the election section remains very much the same as in past festivals.

POSTER SECTION

The final section of the syllabus is due to the success of last year's poster competition, and contains two classes. Class 135 is open to public school pupils of grades 6, 7 and 8 and private school pupils of similar grades. Class 136 is open to high school and senior private school pupils.

Posters must be in the hands of the secretary not later than March 1, and must be on stiff cards of the usual window card size, any color, and must contain the words: "Fifth annual Victoria Musical Festival, May 8 to 9, 1931."

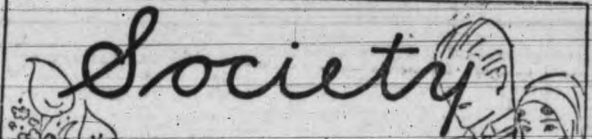

Rules and regulations governing the festival will be found on pages six and seven of the syllabus, from which it will be noted that entries must be received by the corresponding secretary on the proper forms supplied, a separate form for each entry, along with entry fees, on or before March 28, for out-of-town entrants, and April 4 for local entrants. No entries will be accepted after the above dates, as the ballot for places will be held on April 7.

Entries and all other communications should be addressed to the Victoria Musical Festival Association, P.O. Box 1210, Victoria.

ALMA RUBENS DIES AFTER A TRAGIC CAREER

Former Movie Star Succumbs to Pneumonia While on Bail on Narcotic Charge

Made Debut With Fairbanks; Was Three Times Married

Los Angeles, Jan. 22.—The valiant fight of Alma Rubens to conquer narcotic addiction and make a come-back in motion pictures to-day is ended in death.

Miss Rubens, two years ago one of the screen's adored stars, lived a story more tragic than film makers would attempt to depict.

She died last night peacefully, of pneumonia, but the coming of death after a sixty-hour coma served to remove the darkest cloud ever to shadow the black-haired actress.

ARRESTED RECENTLY

Two weeks ago Miss Rubens was arrested in San Diego on Federal charges of smuggling and possession of narcotics. She was taken to jail with a cold, which developed into pneumonia, shortly after being released from jail under $5,000 bond to await hearing and trial.

DEBUT WITH FAIRBANKS

When, nearly twelve years ago, Miss Rubens played the feminine lead in Douglas Fairbanks' "The Half-Breed," she was described as Hollywood's newest Cinderella. Her starring roles in such pictures as "Timonoreque," "The Valley of the Silent Men," "Gilded Butte," "Siberia" and "Unseeing Eyes," during the next decade established her as one of the foremost actresses.

Then in January, 1929, Miss Rubens was revealed as a narcotic addict. She dropped out of pictures and soon was confined for treatment at the Spadra State Hospital. She was paroled within a few months, only again to be cited for addiction and sent to the Patton State Asylum, from which she was released as cured in December of the same year.

CAME BACK IN "SHOW BOAT"

After her term at Spadra had been served, Miss Rubens began a comeback. She played in her first talking picture, "Show Boat."

She attempted another step on the come-back trail after being released from Patton, appearing in a one-act play at the Writers' Club in Hollywood. A rousing ovation was tendered Miss Rubens at the close of the play, which proved to be her last public appearance, and she was hailed as "more beautiful and effective than ever."

During a trip to New York, for a test that she hoped would prepare her for re-entrance to films, Miss Rubens spoke with Ricardo Cortez, film actor, her third husband. They were married in January, 1930. She said he claimed too much credit for her cure, and forwarded divorce papers here for filing. Although the suit never went to trial, the couple remained estranged. Cortez said two hours before Miss Rubens died he had not been informed that she was seriously ill.

MARITAL ADVENTURES

Miss Rubens' marital adventures also recalled the romantic story of her first good break, the coincidence which started her to fame as an actress.

She was born in San Francisco thirty-one years ago, and after attending a convent there, became stage struck. One night while she was watching a musical comedy film actor, it was discovered that one of the chorus girls had failed to appear. Miss Rubens took her place and kept it. In the cast was Franklin Parnum, who persuaded her to join the movies with him when the show moved to Los Angeles. They were married, only to be divorced a few months later in 1918.

Her second husband was Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman, author and film producer, whom she married in 1923 and divorced two years later.

While funeral plans have not been completed, Mrs. Lange said, she and her mother wished the actress' body to be interred in a Fresno mausoleum.

GIRL STUDENT SHOT ON CAMPUS

Jealous Wife Shoots Husband's Secretary at Oklahoma University

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 22.—A pistol in the hands of Mrs. Asbury Endacott, wife of a Tulsa architect and former city commissioner, barked out two shots on the campus at the University of Tulsa yesterday and a young woman fell wounded because the wife had sought vengeance in the belief her "home had been broken up."

To-day pretty Charlene Caudell, twenty-eight-year-old student at the university, the victim of Mrs. Endacott's aim, lay at the point of death in a hospital here.

"It was over trouble—it happened because of our trouble," Miss Caudell whispered before lapsing into unconsciousness.

The young woman was secretary to Endacott when he was city water commissioner. His term expired last spring.

Driving up behind Miss Caudell as the young woman was parking her automobile at the campus curb, Mrs. Endacott left her own car and fired two shots at the student. One bullet entered her right lung and the other penetrated her left side.

Police arrested Mrs. Endacott at the scene of the shooting and took her to the county jail. Officers who questioned her said she had explained she had repeatedly attempted to persuade Miss Caudell to leave my husband alone.

RADIO SERVICES VALUABLE, SAYS BISHOP OF ELY

Convocation of Canterbury Told Religious Broadcasting Restoring Family Prayer

Committee to Study Proposals of Divorce and Birth Control

London, Jan. 22.—Broadcasting of Sunday religious services has brought the habit of family prayer back into the British home, a committee on this modern feature of religion reported at the convocation of Canterbury to-day.

"Radio is a powerful factor in the re-creation of family life," the report said, characterising religious broadcasting as "increasingly valuable."

The Bishop of Ely, as chairman of the committee, said there was no evidence that people had given up church just because they would rather stay at home with their radio sets.

"They put down their pens and they sit up and listen reverently while religious broadcasts are proceeding," he said.

In the lower house of the convocation a committee is to be appointed to study the proposals of the Lambeth Conference regarding divorce and birth control. The committee was authorized by a resolution adopted by a vote of fifty-three to fifty. The motion was made by Canon Long of Birmingham, who asked that the proposals be given careful consideration before they were thrown open to general debate.

"Many people we know and respect," he said, "are deeply concerned at the conference's limited approval of birth control, but we also are keenly conscious of a number of facts which point in the other direction."

This causes us deep regret that the Lambeth conference gave approval to a practice which is open, as they themselves allow, to great and terrible abuse."

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton © 1931 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Children need to be away from older people a great part of every day. There are many reasons for this but perhaps it will be more clearly understood if I draw a picture.

Suppose you were living in a great house where a sort of superperson is master. He is a kind individual, let us suppose, but far smarter than you are and he has taken it into his head that you cannot do anything quite right or without his telling you how to do it.

He measures your hours, appoints your duties, explains how you must wash yourself, gives you lectures on manners and such things, in fact is dogging you every hour of every day to do as he says. You even have to crouch, to his moods and humors and learn propitious moments for asking favors.

In other words you are a slave to a great master, a kind master but a master just the same.

You cannot have an evening off. Even your sleeping and waking are directed by him. He selects your clothes, he directs your feeding. As for your own little life, you have none, according to him.

What would happen? In a very short time you would fret and chafe under such bondage and long to be yourself.

Eventually break over every chance you get, assert yourself, go into tantrums, get balky, unpleasant to live with, irritable and disobedient.

This is precisely what children go through and the wonder is that they are as tractable, docile, and sweet as they are. True, their habits and preferences are not set, but their emotional reactions are, and I cannot see for the life of me how they stand it.

Every member of every family should have the birthright of some independence. Not at the cost of the happiness and comfort of other members of the family, or even of people outside, for moral and ethical and social law must be observed.

INDEPENDENCE IS NECESSARY But independence of soul and spirit and a certain freedom of behavior is needed by all God's children. It is the only way for perfect development.

And so I suggest—don't ride the children, don't bend them, and nag them—and be forever talking to them about what you want them to do.

They learn from you, by your kind suggestion and even positive demand, but they learn quite as much by personal experiment. We all do that and keep on learning and making mistakes all our lives. But that is life and we cannot change it.

fat. Babies get lots of fat as a rule. They get cream in their milk, butter in various ways, large doses of cod liver oil, broiled and pulverized haddock, and so on. It is not difficult to over feed this element. Some babies have more difficulty than others in taking care of excess fat. They react by an excessively acid and scalding urine.

They refuse their food. Their appetites have been spoiled by so much fat. They break out in a rash, or show a crop of blackheads on cheeks and chin.

No drastic treatment is demanded of the mother in order to ride the baby of blackheads. The skin should be kept clean and in winter it is advisable to put on a thin film of baby cold cream before taking the baby out in the wind. The skin will clear itself when the elements which are causing the abnormal condition are brought into balance in the diet.

We have a leaflet which discusses calories, carbohydrates, fats, proteins and vitamins in a way to make any mother familiar with them. With this leaflet and the one on feeding the mother can critically scrutinize her baby's diet and see in what way she is overfeeding him, or any element, and thus ruining his baby complexion.

For either or both of the leaflets we ask only a self-addressed, stamped envelope and a request for them. State your request clearly. Never ask for the leaflets offered in Monday's paper or in the paper for January 21, because the article does not always appear on the date for which it is written. So, if you want the leaflets we ask you to "Pre-pay" us just that and you will be sure to get them, and be sure to enclose the self-addressed envelope on which the stamp is firmly pasted. This is the only help we ask in supplying readers with leaflets or personal advice on the care and feeding of babies and children.

WOMAN RUNS OWN WORLD-WIDE EXPORTING BUSINESS

Cleveland, Jan. 22.—There are a great many men around the world who are carrying on important business deals with a woman and don't know that they are.

In Egypt, Peru, Spain and a dozen of so other countries there would be a large circle of astonished gentlemen if they knew that the name, "G. B. Schwartz," the signature of the sales export manager with whom they do business, belongs to a woman.

For Miss Blanche G. Schwartz of Cleveland, the only woman in the United States, who runs her own business as a combination exports manager, thinks that sex has nothing to do with business. It shouldn't be paraded, it shouldn't be disguised, either, but merely ignored, she says.

SERVES SEVERAL FACTORIES That magic realm, known as the world of business, opened its doors unusually wide when Miss Schwartz asked for admittance. Usually a woman has to spend her time serving as an assistant in some subsidiary capacity. Miss Schwartz is the connecting factor between seven large manufacturers and their markets. The group is composed of non-competitive factories in the middle-west who employ her services as an export manager who functions in their names.

But she really does everything for them that needs to be done, except manufacture their products. She finds markets for the factories. She opens contracts.

She takes care of the credit investigation. She handles all correspondence and documentation involved in shipping orders, and securing reimbursements.

AN EXPERT IN SHIPPING And if a factory doesn't know how to ship its products, she explains just what should be done with the crates and excelsior.

"We study the problem," she says, "and go out under the minimum transportation expense and meet the peculiar duty demands of each country. Sometimes parts must be shipped separately. Again paper bags instead of boxes solve the problem. When we send needles to Peru we have to hold them in place by a single cord, for even the weight of the paper is objectionable to the consignee to say nothing of the fancy display boxes to which the American shopper is accustomed."

A WORLD BUSINESS Miss Schwartz is head over heels in business with distributors or representatives awaiting her instructions in Cuba, Mexico, Spain, Argentina, Scandinavia, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, Egypt, Peru, the Philippines. Have any other countries?

Her interest in business started when she was a high school girl in Cincinnati studying Spanish. She went on to the University of Cincinnati, still pursuing the soft-voiced language of the senoritas and matadors. She knew that business contacts were being opened with the Spanish world. She wanted to know a language that would give her a link in the commercial chain. Advertising started her on her career. Then for seven years she was connected with the Arctic Ice Machine Company in Canton, Ohio, first as advertising manager, then as secretary and treasurer. After that she opened her own office which she has conducted for seven years.

"I don't think that women should look for chivalry and gallantry in the business world," Miss Schwartz insists. "The thing to do is to get your job completed satisfactorily. I shorten my name merely to save time. In America the stress is such that most men are absorbed in other matters during business hours."

THREE GUIDING RULES Miss Schwartz has personally conducted the sales contacts and investigations in Porto Rico. Officials of the Mexican government couldn't conceal their surprise when they found a woman on the scene. But since she was polite enough to have learned their language, as they put it, they exerted themselves to help her.

Miss Schwartz has the guiding rules which she gives to girls who want to climb the business world.

"Give full measure bona fide service before anticipating a promotion. Don't depend on the fact that you are a woman in order to obtain favors but play the game."

"Study stenography so you will have a tool to use when you get into business. Learn the commercial value, too, of the languages you study."

Native Sons Move To Halt Relic Raids

Native Sons of Canada have protested to the Federal authorities against exportation from Canada of a carload of totem poles, now en route from Prince Rupert to the museum of the American Indian Haye Foundation.

The protest was telegraphed yesterday evening to Hon. T. G. Murphy, superintendent general of Indian Affairs, by Robert D. MacLachlan, national secretary of the Native Sons of Canada, and is another step in the society's campaign to terminate exportation from Canada of valuable historic relics of early Indian life.

On behalf of the Native Sons of Canada Mr. MacLachlan has asked the Government to institute prosecutions under section 285 of the Criminal Code, which reads as follows: "Every one who steals, or unlawfully injures or removes, any image, bones, article or thing deposited in or near any Indian grave, is guilty of an offence and liable, on summary conviction, for a first offence, to a penalty not exceeding $100 or to three months' imprisonment, and for a subsequent offence to the same penalty and to six months' imprisonment with hard labor."

Orilla, Jan. 22.—For six months one of Orilla's most fiery-tempered and red-headed Irishmen stumbled over a half-driven nail protruding from his apartment floor. To-day he stumbled and fell and the camel's back was broken.

"I'll keep my temper," he told a neighbor, from whom he borrowed a hammer, "and I'll drive the nail." Drive it he did, flush with the floor. And through a waterpipe beneath. In less than half an hour there was half an inch of water in his apartment, and a frustrated and incoherent Irishman wading in it.

"Keeping one's temper," he said, "is a fool's game. Had I kicked the lumps out of the nail, broken my foot and spoiled my day I would have been away ahead of the game."

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MRS. MEXER ELDRED

Children need to be away from older people a great part of every day. There are many reasons for this but perhaps it will be more clearly understood if I draw a picture.

Suppose you were living in a great house where a sort of superperson is master. He is a kind individual, let us suppose, but far smarter than you are and he has taken it into his head that you cannot do anything quite right or without his telling you how to do it.

He measures your hours, appoints your duties, explains how you must wash yourself, gives you lectures on manners and such things, in fact is dogging you every hour of every day to do as he says. You even have to crouch, to his moods and humors and learn propitious moments for asking favors.

In other words you are a slave to a great master, a kind master but a master just the same.

You cannot have an evening off. Even your sleeping and waking are directed by him. He selects your clothes, he directs your feeding. As for your own little life, you have none, according to him.

What would happen? In a very short time you would fret and chafe under such bondage and long to be yourself.

Eventually break over every chance you get, assert yourself, go into tantrums, get balky, unpleasant to live with, irritable and disobedient.

This is precisely what children go through and the wonder is that they are as tractable, docile, and sweet as they are. True, their habits and preferences are not set, but their emotional reactions are, and I cannot see for the life of me how they stand it.

Every member of every family should have the birthright of some independence. Not at the cost of the happiness and comfort of other members of the family, or even of people outside, for moral and ethical and social law must be observed.

INDEPENDENCE IS NECESSARY But independence of soul and spirit and a certain freedom of behavior is needed by all God's children. It is the only way for perfect development.

And so I suggest—don't ride the children, don't bend them, and nag them—and be forever talking to them about what you want them to do.

They learn from you, by your kind suggestion and even positive demand, but they learn quite as much by personal experiment. We all do that and keep on learning and making mistakes all our lives. But that is life and we cannot change it.

fat. Babies get lots of fat as a rule. They get cream in their milk, butter in various ways, large doses of cod liver oil, broiled and pulverized haddock, and so on. It is not difficult to over feed this element. Some babies have more difficulty than others in taking care of excess fat. They react by an excessively acid and scalding urine.

They refuse their food. Their appetites have been spoiled by so much fat. They break out in a rash, or show a crop of blackheads on cheeks and chin.

No drastic treatment is demanded of the mother in order to ride the baby of blackheads. The skin should be kept clean and in winter it is advisable to put on a thin film of baby cold cream before taking the baby out in the wind. The skin will clear itself when the elements which are causing the abnormal condition are brought into balance in the diet.

We have a leaflet which discusses calories, carbohydrates, fats, proteins and vitamins in a way to make any mother familiar with them. With this leaflet and the one on feeding the mother can critically scrutinize her baby's diet and see in what way she is overfeeding him, or any element, and thus ruining his baby complexion.

For either or both of the leaflets we ask only a self-addressed, stamped envelope and a request for them. State your request clearly. Never ask for the leaflets offered in Monday's paper or in the paper for January 21, because the article does not always appear on the date for which it is written. So, if you want the leaflets we ask you to "Pre-pay" us just that and you will be sure to get them, and be sure to enclose the self-addressed envelope on which the stamp is firmly pasted. This is the only help we ask in supplying readers with leaflets or personal advice on the care and feeding of babies and children.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Wrestler Was Seeking Publicity at Dempsey's Expense
Favorite Advertising Stunt of Ed Lewis Was Challenging Fighters
Ed Dudley Has Made Great Struggle To Reach the Top
Tommy Fielding and Albie Davies Enjoy Successes

JACK DEMPSEY, refereeing a wrestling bout in Texas, was alleged by one of the wrestlers, "These fellows have rough manners and probably the wrestler, one Billy Edwards, unknown outside of Kansas City and Dallas, thought to become famous at Dempsey's expense. Edwards failed to gain prominence by swinging on Jack, however, for while ducking under a wrestler's roundhouse swing, Dempsey instinctively stuck out his right hand and "Iron Mike" happened to collide in the old effective way. The wrestler landed on the flat of his back and ceased to take any further interest in the proceedings.

But while Edwards lost interest, others didn't. As a silly aftermath "strangler" Lewis again challenged Dempsey to a mixed bout. This is an old habit of Lewis'. He started it long ago when he found he needed advertising in his grappling business. Whenever a dull week came along he challenged Dempsey, then champion, to meet him in a roughhouse fight, gloved fists against a wrestler's grips. The fact that such a match could not be staged anywhere in the United States, except out in the tall timbers, with no big gate receipts, didn't worry Lewis. He got a lot of space in the newspapers through it, because sports editors got a story out of what might happen if such a match could be made. But in time Lewis didn't get any more space and he stopped tossing off challenges to Dempsey.

A couple of months ago Lewis had a brilliant new idea. He challenged Young Stripling, Pa. Stripling let it leak out that Stripling would accept and the mixed bout would actually be staged somewhere. A lot of fans figured the bout would be held, but nothing more was heard of it.

But the funniest challenge of all was made by Lou Daro, a Los Angeles wrestling promoter, who telegraphed Dempsey an offer of $150,000 for a mixed bout with him. This, of course, was simply a funny offer intended for no other purpose than to secure advertising. No such mixed bout can be held under the laws of California. Like commission laws in other states of the United States, the regulations designate as foul any wrestling in a boxing bout or the striking of blows in a wrestling bout. Wrestlers apparently forget all about that clause about striking blows, that is if the bout is in the United States are anything like the ones staged here.

The story of the rise of Ed. Dudley, recent winner of the $10,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament, is full of chapters to delight the heart of the duffer who tries day after day to cut down the birdie score. Dudley has come to the top. Dudley first attracted attention while playing in Oklahoma. He was no more than a fair golfer to start with. In 1927, he kept count on forty-nine rounds for an average of about 74 1/2. Little by little every year, Dudley cut down his average and now he is right up among the leaders. This year he should be up among the first five in the professional medalists for the year.

Two Victoria fighters are well on the road to place the Capital City of British Columbia on the fight map. Tommy Fielding, local lightweight, has turned in two victories to open his tour of Australia, while in Portland on Tuesday evening, Albie Davies commenced his campaign for the Pacific Coast lightweight championship with a sweet victory over Eddie Pedersen. Albie got a big hand from the Portland fans, and the radio announcer who broadcast the fight card, was greatly enthused over the exhibition of the Victoria youngster. Good luck to both of them.

Did you know that Joe Sekyra, who has fought both Stripling and Schmelzer, says the Georgia boy will beat Herr Maxie. Joe lost decisions to both Willie and Maxie. Schmelzer had Joe on the floor for a short count. Stripling outpointed him. Joe says Maxie is much the harder puncher, but he doesn't always land. He doesn't think the German will hit Willie with a saved-off shotgun. Tommy Connolly's son, Frank, will umpire with the Boston Red Sox work the out of Fenway in the spring. Nothing was said about what branch of the service in which Italy wanted Primo Carnera to serve, but anybody is allowed to guess that it was cavalry—being short of horses. Kane City has a masked marvel. He beat Joe Malcevic recently, and the populace is all a-fire over him.

BILLIARDS

Although game honors were equally divided in the International Billiard League (I.B.L.) meeting, Army and Navy players emerged a sufficiently large "net" and to defeat Port City follows in the "C" division. The "B" team scored 372 points to the "C" team's 348. Scores follow:

Crack Island and Mainland Players Will Enter Events

Four-day Tournament Will Be Staged at Bay Street Armories February 4, 5, 6 and 7, Under Auspices of Garrison Badminton Club; Duncan Players, Who Captured Every Title Last Year, Favored to Retain Honors; Many Strong Local Entries; All Entries Must Be In By February 2.

Completion of plans for the Vancouver Island badminton championships scheduled for the first week in February at the Bay Street Armories, have been announced by the Victoria Garrison Badminton Club, under whose auspices the four-day tournament will be held. The meet has increased in popularity each year and last year set a new record for Island tournaments. It was necessary to keep the competitors in the hall from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock the following morning in order to determine the finalists without imposing too much of a hardship on the final day.

F. T. HUNTER LEAVES RANKS OF AMATEURS

Doubles Partner of Bill Tilden Will Take Part in Exhibition at New York

Will Not Make Tour With Tilden and Kozeluh; Twice Runner-up For U.S. Singles

New York, Jan. 22.—The influence of Bill Tilden has led Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N.Y., publisher, to join the ranks of professional players.

Hunter announced his decision to turn pro yesterday. He said he desired to follow the path of his friend and doubles partner, Bill Tilden, who will join in the exhibition being arranged by Jack Curley for Tilden's professional debut in Madison Square Garden, February 18, but will not participate in the tour Tilden and Karel Kozeluh will make later. His business as a newspaper publisher keeps him close to home and his exhibitions will be limited to week-end appearances in the east.

Largely due to Tilden's aid and influence, Hunter, a stocky hard-driving player, rose to second place in the national tennis ranking in 1927 from twelfth the year before and held the title in 1928 and 1929. He took part in few tournaments in 1930.

LOST TO COCHET In 1928 Hunter fought his way into the finals of the national tennis championship, losing to Henri Cochet of France in a hard five set match. The next year he was runner-up to Tilden's partner, in winning the 1928 doubles title and the Davis Cup doubles match. Hunter twice has held the national indoor title.

Manitoba Grads In 4 to 0 Victory

Vienna, Austria, Jan. 22.—The young Manitoba University Grade hockey team scored its sixth victory yesterday evening since its arrival in Europe, defeating an All-Austrian team by a score of 4 to 0.

Play will commence on Wednesday, February 4, and will be confined to local entries, and the handicap events. On Thursday and Friday the remaining players in the tournament will have the whole day and part of the evenings to play off their matches. Out-of-town competitors for the open championships will not be drawn until early Friday morning. This concession is being made to the mainland players who cannot arrive at an earlier date.

Nine events will keep every player in action for two days at least as any one player can play in four and possibly five events. The added junior and handicap event will attract many of the Victoria players who are not entering the open championships.

The tournament promises to be an outstanding success as entries are expected from all Island points and from mainland centres. Last year all the titles were taken by players from the Island. With Noel Radford away there is no outstanding male player in Vancouver and local enthusiasts point to the Victoria players as the best. Birch and Drennan Hinks, the three outstanding players in the men's ranks on the Island, Lesley has improved tremendously this year and could give a good account of himself against any mainland man. Leney and Birch are the best doubles team in the district although they lost the title last year.

Golfers Open Play In Final Tourney Of Winter Campaign

Leading United States Pros and Many Crack Amateurs Entered in $4,000 Motion Picture Tournament at Los Angeles; MacDonald Smith, Who Has Fought Shy of Match Play Events for Many Years, Among the Entrants; Other Strong Entries are Johnny Golden, George Von Elm, Horton Smith and Leo Diegel.

Los Angeles, Jan. 22.—Winter campaigners of the fairways rallied at the Riviera Country Club to-day for the qualifying round of the motion picture industries $4,000 match play tournament—their last chance this season at California's golfing gold.

More than eighty players, including a large share of America's great professionals and amateurs in making this final bid for gold and glory, sought to turn in thirty-six-hole scores, which would put them into the list of the thirty-two survivors.

Among these was a stranger to such proceedings—MacDonald Smith, the Scot from New York—Smith made a great name for himself as a medal player, but always looked somewhat skanky at match play, and appeared in tournaments of that nature only two or three times since coming to America.

The last of these came in 1909, when he lost to Willie Anderson in the finals of such a tourney in San Francisco. ARE TOO LONG

"The only thing I never liked about match play tournaments," Smith said, "was that they are usually too long and drawn out. They took me away from my club for too long a period. Now with no club duties to tie me down, it is different."

While the veteran campaigner won less than $500 in the Los Angeles and Agua Caliente events this year, previously he won the Los Angeles event two years in succession and has always been a constant threat.

Others who will participate in the hopes of collecting the first-place money of $1,000 are Johnny Golden, Norton, Conn., Agua Caliente $25,000 open champion. George Von Elm, Los Angeles, the runner-up, Horton Smith, New York, who was third, Leo Diegel and Walter Hagen, both former P.G.A. champions.

Roland Mackenzie, Washington, D.C., heads the list of amateurs.

The match play begins Friday at the Riviera Country Club, with the first and second rounds over 18 holes.

Last-minute Rally Gives Pedens Win And Championship

Defeat Y.M.C.A. 26 to 23 to Capture City Senior "A" Men's Basketball Championship at High School Gym Yesterday Evening; Joe Ross Nets Winning Points; Will Represent Victoria in Provincial Play-offs; West Road and Hustlers Win.

Putting on a great finish in the final six minutes of play, Pedens senior "A" men's basketball five defeated the Y.M.C.A. 26 to 23 yesterday evening, to clinch the second half and also the local league championship and the right to represent Victoria in the provincial play-offs. In the other two games at the High School gym, the West Road senior "B" men handed the Sons of Canada a 31 to 23 setback, and the Hustlers scored an easy win over the Normal School 25 to 19.

At the Centennial gymnasium, Pedens defeated Hanbury's 28 to 24, while the Standard Steam Laundry took the Empress Hotel Laundry into camp, 37 to 15.

Y.M.C.A. seemed to be well on their way to victory, when with only seven minutes left to play they held a 21 to 14 lead. At this stage Pedens' came to life and baskets by Jones and Hocking, the former collecting two, brought them back in the fight. Joe Ross then counted a foul only to have Acres put the "Y" back in the lead again. Jones tied the count with another close-in shot, while Ross scored the winning points shortly after when he sank a shot and was fouled, also counting the free throw.

The teams and individual scores follow:
Pedens—Jones (10), Hocking (8), Robertson, Chapman (3), Ross (5) and Little.

MINOR LEAGUE ICE TEAMS IN BITTER GAMES

American and International Clubs in Fierce Struggles; Standings Change

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 22.—The park drew closer to Tulsa's title Oilers yesterday evening as battle along the American Hockey League front waxed fiercer. Today, five contenders were grouped within a radius of four league points, and only two teams, Buffalo and St. Louis, appeared out-run.

Chicago Shamrocks slid within two points of the Oilers with a sensational 4 to 3 win over Duluth Hornets. Five thousand Chicago fans saw the clash, which McFadden clinched with a solo goal in the second overtime period.
Defeat of the Hornets allowed Kansas City and Minneapolis to draw even with them in third place. Playing at Dallas, Texas, Kansas City outscored Buffalo 2 to 1, tying the series in the southern state. Buffalo won the first game Tuesday night. Babe Donnelly, former Bob Greyhound star, scored a first-period goal for Buffalo.

MINNEAPOLIS WIN
At Eveleth, Minn., Herbie Rheame, once a Hamilton Tiger star, made one serious mistake that cost St. Louis a victory in a 1 to 0 defeat. Rheame in warding off Depaul's shot, knocked the puck into his net for Minneapolis. Millers winning goal.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 22.—Syracuse Stars played impressively to hold Cleveland Indians to a two-all tie in the only scheduled fixture in the International Hockey League yesterday evening. The Stars outplayed the titleholders throughout, and only lack of finish around the nets, coupled with spectacular work by the Indian goalkeeper, prevented them piling up a decisive margin.

The tie enabled the champions to gain undisputed possession of fourth place, one point in the van of the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets.

McDUFFER OF THE MISSAPUTTA GOLF CLUB

BY BARBIE PATNE

"It's hard to get a sensible answer out of Pro Sandy, because he's all the time wisecracking. I asked him 'What's the easiest shot in golf?' and he said 'The conceded putt.'"

Canucks Play Big Part In Success of U.S. Hockey Teams

Helping American Clubs To Dominate Scoring In N.H.L.

Teams From American Division of Major Hockey Are Outscoring Canadian Clubs With Monotonous Regularity Mainly Through Efforts of Players From Canada; American Section Players Have Big Advantage in Individual Scoring List.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 22.—With more than half of the National Hockey League, forty-four game schedule finished, "hot stove" statisticians are musing on the whys and wherefores of hockey statistics and on the interesting fact that teams representing American cities are outscoring their Canadian rivals with somewhat monotonous regularity. At the same time, the statisticians are making careful note of the fact that the leading "American" scorers are Canadian boys who have crossed the border in recent years.

ANDERSON TO MEET CHAMP

Seattle Wrestler Tackles Mervin Barackman, Northwest Titleholder

Anderson Under Weight Handicap; "Rocky" Brooks Matched With Forsgren

Despite the fact that he will face a weight handicap on Saturday when he climbs over the ropes to meet Mervin Barackman, middleweight champion of the Pacific Northwest, Desmond Anderson, Seattle matman, is given an even break to win the title.

Anderson has shown that he is fully versed in the many punishing holds of the sport, and in addition has plenty of speed. Barackman looks a likely enough grappler and might surprise the fans by defeating Anderson and retaining his championship belt.

The semi-windup between Jack Forsgren, Vancouver, and "Rocky" Brooks, Victoria, promises to be an interesting battle. In his last two starts Brooks has turned in victories, but those who have seen the mainlander in action figure he will have his hands full on Saturday.

The Stormy Petrel

By JIMMY THOMPSON

GORDIE BRYDSON
IS STILL MUCH IN THE LIMELIGHT
RECENT STANDINGS SHOW HIM THE LEADER OF THE PUCK-CHASERS OF THE AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

Gordie Brydson while getting into the limelight over the Roy brothers affair, has also distinguished himself in a big way as a golfer. He has commanded a good deal of respect from many of the best professionals in Ontario. A few weeks ago it looked as if Gordie was going to be the storm centre of the little affair scheduled between the N.H.L. and the American Hockey Association, but things settled down and he is peacefully chasing the little disk around the pond. He broke into professional hockey in Chicago as a member of Eddie Livingston's Cardinals and is making a mark in the hall of fame for scoring in the American League. Brydson whose differences with the London International led him to go to the American League, is now the leading goal-getter in the circuit, having fourteen goals and two assists for a total of sixteen points. He has had only ten minutes in penalties this season so far.

Clever Halfback

MURRAY WEST
When St. Saviour's meet Esquimalt here on Saturday in their Province Cup soccer match Murray West, stellar left-half of the chameleon's team, will be in his usual place, and the right wing of the local eleven will find him a hard man to get by. West is now back in the form which made him one of the leading Vancouver players a couple of seasons ago.

Max Baer Will Meet Loughran On February 6

New York, Jan. 22.—Max Baer, young coast heavyweight, will make his first appearance in New York on February 6, meeting Tommy Loughran, former light-heavyweight titleholder, in Madison Square Garden. Baer has fought twice in the Garden arena, losing a decision to Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, and getting a technical knockout over Tom Heenev.

Yanks Send Young Walsh to Minors

New York, Jan. 22.—With the resumption of trading between the majors and the International League, the New York Yankees sent one pitcher to Jersey City and received another from there, Bob Walsh, son of the famous Ed Walsh, was sent to the minors on option, in order to give him more seasoning. John Allen, speed ball artist, was bought from Jersey City yesterday. The Yanks also signed Hayden Foutz, semi-pro catcher from Ashland, Ohio.

CHRIST CHURCH HAND J.B.A.A. FIRST DEFEAT

Church Badminton Players Hand Rowing Club Surprise 10 to 6 Setback

Bays Still Lead League; Y.M.C.A. "A" Squad Beat North Saanich 13 to 3

After running their winning streak to seven consecutive games, J.B.A.A.'s Third Division badminton team yesterday evening bowed to the Christ Church team by a score of 10 to 6. The match was played at the Memorial Hall and was witnessed by a large number of supporters. In the other Lower League fixture the Y.M.C.A. "A" team won from North Saanich, 13 to 3 at the Y.M.C.A. J.B.A.A. had been coasting towards the championship for some time. Severe losses in the men's and women's doubles accounted for the J.B.A.A. defeat, as the best they could do was two out of six for a four-point loss. They held their own in the mixed doubles, but failed to get back any of the points lost in the earlier series.

STILL ON TOP
J.B.A.A.'s defeat still leaves them at the top of the standings with one point separating them from Christ Church and Saanich. They have won seven and lost one with Christ Church, one point behind because of a draw. (Concluded on Page 14)

UNIVERSITY HOLDS HIGH RUGBY TEAM

Mount Tolmie Students Present Stonewall Defence to Provincial Champions

Good Rugby Seen as Fifteens Battle to Scoreless Draw in Fast Match

University Schools' red and black rugby machine emerged from its partial slump in the first half of the season, to hold Victoria High, provincial school champions, to a scoreless draw in a bang-up game at the High School grounds yesterday. The Mount Tolmie boys, presenting a stonewall defence, stopped every rush the city students made on their line and retaliated with several offensive plays that brought them within an ace of scoring. It was the first time the black and gold squad had been held this year. The fixture was anybody's game from the start, with the High having a slight edge in the first half and University the advantage in the second stage.

From the kick-off University pressed and kept the High backfield busy breaking up pretty passing attacks. Patrick broke away and ran the length of the field only to be stopped dead on the line by a fine tackle by Hamner. Hess sent the ball on a nice kick to centre where Chapman tried a place kick through a University offside. He placed the ball just a little short being robbed of a score by a strong wind which, turned the ball.

RAINVILLE IS BEATEN EARLY

Canadian Davis Cup Player Loses Opening Match in Indoor Championship

Montreal, Jan. 22.—George M. Lott, Chicago, winner of the Canadian indoor tennis championship title for three of the past four years, set out in defence of his crown at the Montreal Indoor Tennis Club yesterday against the most formidable competition that he has ever faced in Canada. Leading players from both the United States and Canada remained in the running at the end of a lengthy day of play, which saw the field cut in half in both singles and doubles.

The four ranking players, Lott, John Van Ryn, Berkeley Bell and Gilbert Hall, came through their matches without difficulty.

Encouraging to the Canadian audience was the splendid form shown by Dr. Jack Wright, Charlie Leslie and Dr. Art Ham. These three also advanced with little trouble and all seemed to be at the top of their game.

One unfortunate event occurred to mar an otherwise perfect day when Marcel Rainville, Canadian Davis Cup player, was taken ill prior to his match. He determined to play, however, and met with defeat at the hands of C. O. Plimpton of Boston. Later in the afternoon, after receiving medical treatment, Rainville appeared in doubles with Emmett Fare of Chicago, and gave a remarkably plucky display to win.

Kaye Don Timed At Over 100 Miles Per Hour In Miss England II To-day

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Jan. 22.—Kaye Don, motorboat racer, was officially timed at more than 100 miles an hour this morning in a series of trial runs in Miss England II, the boat in which he will try to set a new world record in connection with the British trade exposition at Buenos Aires next March.

The tests were conducted in the choppy waters of Lough Neagh. It was said that at no time were the throttles more than half open.

The time will not stand as a record, however, since the trials were not clocked by officials of the racing organization.

Journaling to Nanshan yesterday the "Our Own Brand" fivepin team won two out of three games from Hyams. The Victoria bowlers turned in a fine performance, rolling an aggregate total of 9,044. Following the match the Victoria players were entertained at a banquet.

Wasson Is Planning Continental Flight With Bride Aloft

Young Pilot Hopes to Complete Honeymoon With New York-Oakland Air Cruise

Wife, Who Is Keen Flier, Gives Sanction to Latest Aerial Scheme

There is an element of adventure in the honeymoon tour which has been planned by Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Wasson, who left here early this morning aboard the coast liner, Dorothy Alexander, for the south.

Pilot Wasson is keen to make a transcontinental flight and, if it is at all possible, he will do this after the wedding tour has been completed via the Panama Canal at New York.

"If I can get the use of a plane in the east, I shall certainly fly back from New York to Oakland," said the flying benedict.

While in the east Wasson will inspect a plane which is being delivered to the order of the Treadwell Yukon Company. This is the plane which he may fly across the continent.

"Will Mrs. Wasson fly with you across the continent?" the airman was asked.

"I think so," he smiled reflectively. It was while he was flying in the north for the Treadwell Yukon Exploration Company that Pilot Wasson first met Miss Florence Jones, a nurse attached to the hospital at Whitehorse, Yukon Territory.

Avoiding publicity, Pilot Wasson secured a marriage license immediately following his arrival in Vancouver from the north and on Saturday evening last, he wed the girl of his choice. Mrs. Wasson has been aloft with her husband on two occasions. That was during the period of her hospital service in Whitehorse, when her sweetest made frequent flights between Mayo and Whitehorse. But although she has been but a few hours in the air, Mrs. Wasson is an enthusiastic airwoman and may be persuaded by her husband to take over the controls some day.

In any event, she is keen on the proposed transcontinental flight which will transport the honeymooners from New York to Oakland.

There is a sentimental reason leading to the selection of Oakland as the terminal of the suggested flight.

HOW HE LEARNED TO FLY
It was at Oakland that Pilot Wasson learned to fly in 1924.

Raised on his father's fruit ranch, seventy-five miles distant from San Francisco, the youthful Wasson, at the age of eighteen years, cast eyes skyward. As it happened, Art Starbuck, one of the chief pilots of the Pacific Airways Transport and a war flyer, purchased a ranch from Wasson's father and was in the habit of making flying trips to relax on his ranch property.

When these visits occurred, young Wasson spent most of his time stung up Starbuck's plane and on several occasions he was taken aloft. These trips fired Wasson's imagination and the ranch could no longer hold him.

He went to Oakland and, having saved some money, he entered a flying school there. He was soon solo flying and it was not long afterwards that he was granted his pilot's license.

Two years ago last August, Wasson had been on a barnstorming expedition along the southern California coast, taking passengers on flights. This was not a very successful venture from a financial standpoint and Wasson decided to return to Oakland.

As he entered the office he was met by the manager, who said:

"Wasson, do you want to go to Alaska?"

"The trip he had just completed had been an unsuccessful one and he answered, 'I sure do.'"

"That was two years and five months ago and I have had reason since to congratulate myself that I accepted the offer," said Pilot Wasson.

Flying in the northland is not easy work and the hazards are great in the winter time.

AT FIFTY BELOW ZERO

Flying at fifty below zero is all right with a Fairchild engine turning over at the prescribed number of revolutions. It is when the plane gets down to ground level that trouble invariably starts with ice-clogged wings and runners embedded in drifts.

Flying regularly out of Mayo, where the Treadwell Yukon Company has large mining interests, Pilot Wasson covers a triangle schedule similar to the route followed by the steamers in the triangle service, between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle. The distance from Mayo to Whitehorse is 220 miles, from Whitehorse to Dawson 330 miles and from Dawson to Mayo 180 miles. It is recognized as the best means of transport in the north.

A regular schedule is maintained as far as possible and all post trains are met at Whitehorse. Passengers, mails, express and baggage are handled up to a total of 800 pounds, which is the limit of Fairchild's carrying capacity.

PLANE'S UTILITY IN NORTH

The great utility of the plane in the northern region was pointed out by Pilot Wasson, who stated that the aircraft makes the trip from Mayo to Whitehorse in two hours, as against ten days by land and river transportation.

After their honeymoon trip, Pilot and Mrs. Wasson will return to the Yukon.

The heroic airman who brought Burke's body out from the headwaters of the Liard River and saved the lives of Robert Marten and Emil Kading, will then resume his flights over the great silent spaces of the north.

The annual meeting of the parishioners of St. Mark's Church was held on Monday evening at the home of F. P. Frudd, people's warden. Rev. H. M. Bolton, the vicar, presided, those present being Mrs. G. F. Weir, Mrs. G. Clarke, Miss Blythe, Rev. W. Gemmill, Messrs. H. G. Pierce, F. P. Frudd and H. S. Jordan. The church warden's report and financial statement showed taxes, insurance and all amounts due the Synod had been paid. Rev. Mr. Gemmill moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Frudd and congratulated him on the satisfactory finances.

The report of St. Mary's branch of the W.A. to the M.S.C.C. presented by Mrs. Weir, showed all efforts to raise money had received generous support, all pledges were paid up and generous donations had been made to various funds. The financial condition of the W.A. was satisfactory.

The Sunday school report, read by Miss Milne, showed good attendance and much progress. The superintendent, Miss Chegwinn, thanked Miss Stretton, Mrs. C. Helgesen and Miss Violet Clarke for assistance in teaching.

The vicar expressed appreciation of the manner in which all obligations had been met, congratulated the president and members of the W.A. and thanked them for contributions made to church expenses. He thanked the ladies who had helped with the Sunday school, and on behalf of the congregation extended thanks to Mrs. Weir, the organist, to Mr. Frudd and to Mr. Pierce for the manner in which he had represented them at the meetings of the synod. Thanks were also tendered to Mr. Gemmill for assistance with the services of the church, to Mrs. H. S. Jordan for cushions for the sanctuary, to Mrs. Hammond for having water laid on to the cemetery, to the W.I. for a cash gift towards maintaining the cemetery, to Mr. Pullen for auditing the books, and to the congregation for co-operation.

The vicar appointed H. G. Pierce as his warden and F. P. Frudd was elected people's warden by acclamation. The members of the new church committee will be Mrs. F. A. Osborne, Mrs. G. Clarke, Miss Blythe, Mrs. Taylor, Rev. W. Gemmill, Messrs. H. S. Jordan, G. F. Weir, H. C. Helgesen and E. P. Ashe; the missionary committee will be Miss Blythe, Mrs. A. Cann, Mrs. Osborne and Rev. W. Gemmill; lay representatives to the synod, H. G. Pierce and F. P. Frudd, with E. P. Ashe and R. S. Peacock as alternates; representatives to rural deanery conference, Mrs. Bolton, Miss Blythe and Miss Chegwinn; aldermen, A. Minckton, B. Skelton, Pergus Reid and Ronald Weir; auditor, T. T. Pullen.

The monthly meeting of the South Saanich Women's Institute was held in the Temperance Hall last week with an excellent attendance of members. The new president, Mrs. J. Sutherland, presided.

Among the correspondence was the quarterly report of the Y.W.C.A. Thanks were expressed by Mrs. MacKenzie on behalf of her husband and herself for two 25 gold pieces which the institute presented to them on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary, recently celebrated.

The annual report of the Junior Institute Club was read by Mrs. C. L. Bryan.

Arrangements were made to hold a card party and dance with the Farmers' Institute on January 29, and a committee composed of Mrs. J. J. Young and Mrs. H. Lawrie were appointed to meet a committee from the Farmers' Institute to make arrangements.

It was decided to hold social meetings the first Thursday afternoon of each month as well as the regular

At the first sign of IRRITATED THROAT

gargle with Listerine—reduces germs 98%

NEVER make the mistake of underestimating the menace of a cold or sore throat. Either may develop into serious or fatal complications. You can probably recall such a case among your friends. Statistics show that every year respiratory diseases cause more than a million deaths.

At the first sign of trouble, gargle every two hours with full strength Listerine, the safe, healing antiseptic, and call your physician. If the irritation is mild, Listerine will frequently check it. If it is not, the doctor will diagnose the real trouble and treat it properly.

Reduces mouth germs 98%

Against ordinary colds and sore throat, full strength Listerine is amazingly effective. That is because it is fatal to all germs which cause such infection. Kills them by millions in 15 seconds, the fastest killing time accurately recorded by science.

Repeated tests show that full strength Listerine actually reduces the number of germs on mouth surfaces 98%. And at the same time it stimulates mouth tissue.

Gargle every 2 hours

In time of sickness the gargle every two hours is needed to keep dangerous and swiftly multiplying germs under control.

In time of normal health, however, the night and morning gargle will be sufficient to maintain a hygienic condition in the mouth.

Non-poisonous, Safe

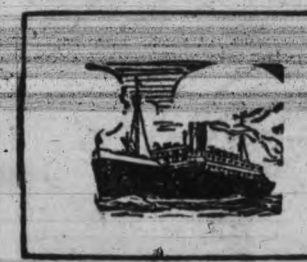

The most convincing proof of Listerine's germicidal strength is its ability to kill Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs in counts ranging to 200,000,000 in 15 seconds. Staphylococcus Aureus is highly resistant to germicidal action and is therefore specified as the germ by which all germicides are tested.

Keep Listerine handy in home and office and use it full strength for all infections. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, Toronto, Canada.

LISTERINE THE SAFE ANTISEPTIC

KILLS 200,000,000 GERMS IN 15 SECONDS

Log Barge Drifts Away From Tugboat

Drumwell Anchored Off Gordon Head Before Wind Blew Her Into Cadboro Bay Rocks

Salvage King Proceeds to Aid Disabled Seattle Towboat

Andrew Foss

After drifting helplessly for several hours during the high wind this morning, when it was feared for a time, would send her on the rocks at Cadboro Bay, the big steel log barge Drumwell of the Pacific Coast Navigation Company of Vancouver was safely anchored off Gordon Head this afternoon.

Her towboat, the Andrew Foss of Seattle, which broke down in the straits about 6 o'clock this morning and later drifted away from the log barge, came to anchor alongside the Drumwell at noon and both ships are now awaiting orders regarding repairs.

Hearing of the plight of the Drumwell and the Andrew Foss, the Pacific Salvage Company's steamer Salvage King left her pier at Victoria at 6 o'clock this morning and proceeded to the Gulf in search of the barge. At that time the barge was reported drifting helplessly towards the rocks off Cadboro Bay and it was feared she would pile up. There were several men aboard the drifting craft. The crew of the Andrew Foss managed to effect temporary repairs to their craft and later were able to find the Drumwell and anchor alongside her.

The Drumwell is an old freighter which has been stripped down for the log-carrying trade. The Andrew Foss is a Seattle craft with a length of ninety-two feet, a breadth of twenty-two feet and a depth of nine feet. She was built in Seattle in 1905 and is one of the strong towboats in neighboring waters.

WELL-KNOWN DEEP-SEA FREIGHTERS

Two deep-sea freighters that are well-known at Victoria are the motor-ship Minerva, shown above, and the Parthenia, below. The Minerva is a new ship and is in the Pacific Coast-Australia service of the Whang-puan Line. She was built by Burnside and Wain and has 2,800 indicated horsepower on twin screws. When loaded the Minerva uses ten tons of fuel per day, or a consumption of 0.32 pound per indicated horsepower for all purposes. The Parthenia is a unit of the Dominion fleet and is well-known at this port, being a frequent caller from Europe.

lakes approximately three amperes

but the duration of the flash is so brief that the power consumed is negligible.

After flashing, the lamp is of no further use, and should be thrown away.

The dead wires within the bulb are coated with an insulating varnish to avoid short circuiting by the foil.

While an asbestos disc, printed with the manufacturer's name and the name of the lamp, protects the stem tube and the base from excessive temperature.

The interior of the surface of the bulb is thinly coated with a special material that should the glass bulb crack during flashing, will prevent the crack shattering.

The photographic lamp may be ignited by an ordinary flashlight battery or in an extension socket connected to the house lighting circuit. It will operate on either direct or alternating current.

For increased range, it should be used in a metal reflector of the deep bowl type.

been the slackest for some time, other

Vancouver Island ports are experiencing a fair amount of activity in the timber line and Nanosco, Cheminus ships in port. H. A. Barnard, local Port Alberni loading good parcels of timber from Vancouver Island forests.

AN EXPLANATION

The Citizen League after the result of the poll was known, and then later on gave a report of his address. It also mentioned that it had pointed out that many people who had voted in the last

Dominion election found that they were not on the list and that this caused considerable confusion. Unfortunately, however, the way the report appears in your paper many people who have read the same have got a wrong idea from it, as they have taken the remarks made by the said

Mr. Humphries as having been made by me. As returning officer I naturally remained neutral and refrained at all times from expressing my own personal opinion on the question that was being voted on, and most certainly did not thank the electors who turned out and voted "No," nor did I thank those who had voted against beer by the glass and assisted as scrutineers. The only statement made by me at the close of the voting was in regard to the confusion due to people either not being on the list or finding their names on the voters' list for some division where they lived at one time, but not where they now lived.

ROBERT H. GREEN,

Returning Officer.

Victoria, B.C., January 21, 1931.

NAVY DEFEAT GARRISON TO OBTAIN LEAD

Goals by Burns and Brown accounted for Saanich's United's victory. Accurate passing and shooting was almost impossible, the high wind deflecting the ball from its objective time after time.

About ten minutes after the opening of the first half, Brown carried the ball along the right wing and crossed perfectly to Burns. Burns took the

Uncle Ray's Corner

Ways of Water

A few years ago I took a swim in Great Salt Lake. There was little need for the swimming—a person cannot sink completely in that lake unless he dives or loads himself down with iron or other weights.

About fifteen minutes after the end of my swim, I brushed my hand over my chin and rubbed away grains of salt.

A barrel of water taken from Great Salt Lake contains much more salt than a barrel of ocean water. Salt is what makes the water so heavy in Utah's famous lake. Since the water is heavier, cubic foot for cubic foot, than a human being, people who jump in will bob up almost like corks.

Rivers take salt away from rocks and carry it to the ocean. This has been going on for ages and ages. Sunshine turns some of the ocean water into vapor, and the vapor rises into the air. The salt is left below. The result is that ocean waters become more and more salty.

In the same way lakes would become salty if they did not have good outlets, but you usually find that at least one stream flows away from a lake. Thus the water is kept moving and remains fresh. There is no good outlet to Great Salt Lake.

Water also carries lime from place to place. Rain water (which is not always safe to drink) is almost free from solid parts. Rain and the water from melted snow sink into the earth and flow through holes between rock layers. The water wears away rock. Limestone is worn away more than any other kind. Our biggest caves are hollows left where limestone once existed under the soil.

Water drips into caves from the ceilings, and when that happens "stalactites" are formed. This is due to bits of lime being left behind when the water seeps through. In the course of time long objects shaped like icicles may be seen hanging from the cave ceilings.

ball as it touched the ground and banged it into the net.

Play swung from end to end with the department store team making gallant efforts to equalize the count. About a minute from the rest interval, Wright broke away and sent in a hot shot on the Saanich net. Toobie went down for it and saved.

In the second half, the United renewed their attack. Five minutes from the start Brown scored on a nice play with the field and passed to Brown, who tricked Tupman on a beat Shrimpton with a hot drive from close in.

SHRIMPION STARS
Good net tending by Shrimpton saved the storemen from suffering a worse defeat as the Saanich boys ran through for shots in quick succession. In a desperate rally, Fish—nearly scored a try when he headed Dutch Davis's pass wide. Shortly after he hit the cross bar with another shot. Wright broke away, but missed his shot.

In the dying minutes of the game Wright again worked his way through but asked the ball over the bar from close quarters.

The teams lined up as follows:
Saanich—United—Tooby, Wyatt, O'Connell, Stoner, Moir, A. Speller, Brown, Cann, Burns, Moss and M. Speller.

Hudson's Bay—Shrimpton, Armstrong, Tupman, Woodley, Oakman, Gull, Newell, Fish, Wright, Small and Davis.

Children Sometimes Contract
Tuberculosis From Adults

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Years ago a German investigator, basing his opinion on a tremendous number of postmortem examinations, issued a statement that practically every child became infected with tuberculosis before reaching the age of adolescence.

Modern methods of hygiene, the use of preventatives in which malnutrition is controlled, and similar methods of study have unquestionably lowered the incidence of tuberculosis among children in most communities.

The San Francisco Tuberculosis Association, through Dr. L. B. Dickey and R. P. Seitz, has just made available the results of an examination of 8,500 children in that city in an attempt to find out how prevalent tuberculosis is among boys and girls in that community.

The method used was the tuberculin test, in which small amounts of the sensitive substance is injected into the skin. Of the 8,500 children tested, 484 or 5.6 per cent reacted positively.

It is the general belief that infection in childhood is probably acquired in large part by contact with cases of tuberculosis in other members of the family. Girls still spend a larger part of their time than boys in the house. They are thus exposed to more intimate contact with members of the family who suffer with tuberculosis.

Doctor Seitz believes that boys have probably just as much of a chance, because they circulate more and are more likely to come in contact with a number of people than are girls.

Similar studies made by other investigators throughout the world show an incidence of tuberculosis in children varying from thirty-one per cent in Iowa, to forty-six per cent in Philadelphia, fifty per cent in Minneapolis, forty-three per cent in New York, twenty-five per cent in Buenos Aires and ninety-four per cent in Vienna.

The authors are convinced that the most plausible explanation of the lessened amount of infection among children throughout the world is early recognition of cases of tuberculosis in adults as sources of infection and their early removal from the environment so that they no longer serve as permanent sources of infection to children who may be members of the same family.

Lone Rooter Sails
With Boston Ice
Team For Europe

New York, Jan. 22.—A solitary hockey player, Die Harlowe of Boston, is on his way to Boston with the Boston Hockey Club, United States representative in the international hockey championships at Krylnia next month.

The club sailed yesterday evening on the Bremen after finding success in a last minute attempt to gather the necessary funds. A collection taken at the Boston-Ottawa National League game Tuesday netted $1,577.25 and Charles F. Adams, president of the Boston Bruins, added a contribution of $500 which enabled the team to make the trip.

UNIVERSITY HOLDS HIGH

Play hovered between the two twenty-five-yard lines' first one team getting the ball and then the other. Again Chapman tried a place kick and again the ball put the next play on a foot that looked like a sure tally. Hamber returned the ball to midfield where his team-mates advanced the ball to High's five-yard line. Stipe cleared with a fine kick. Here Levy crashed his way to the University line where he dropped the ball when tackled by no less than six University lads. Victoria blocked the kick from the twenty-five line and Patrick and Bristowe came within an ace of scoring only being stopped when Bristowe was knocked out. He returned after a few minutes and on the next play on a nice solo run was bowled out on the ten-yard line. Fitzgerald, University, was hurt at this stage but returned in a few minutes. Play returned to midfield as the half whistle blew.

STERLING RUGBY

Both teams played sterling rugby after the rest interval and the ball was continually between the two twenty-five-yard lines. In the last ten minutes of the game University school was pressing and several times came within an ace of scoring. University fumbled at the kick-off and Victoria raced down the field with Patrick carrying the ball. Chapman received the piskin from Patrick and made a dash for the line only to be brought down on a nice tackle by Hamber.

Play again came back to midfield where it remained see-sawing back and forth between the two squads. Pyke dashed through but was stopped after a nice gain by Fitzgerald. There was a bad mix-up for the ball with Levy gaining possession. He went along on another nice gain but was tackled hard, sustaining a wrenched knee which bothered him for the remainder of the game. Hess missed the High uprights by inches when he took a kick from near the goal line.

TAKEN FROM FIELD

Levy smashed his way through to the University twenty-five-yard line but again hurt his knee in the attempt. He was again injured on the next play which necessitated him leaving the field. Victoria finishing with only fourteen men. University School continued pressing for the next ten minutes and were on the goal line at the final whistle.

Hess and Hamber, with their kicking, starred for University, while Chapman, Patrick, Robson and Levy were the pick of the local crowd. S. Hume refereed, and the line-ups were as follows:

University—Hamber, Atkinson, Hess, Mercer, Leggat, Maitland, Weaver, Holmes, Fitzgerald, Smith, Drum, Boyce, Wilkinson and Hackney.

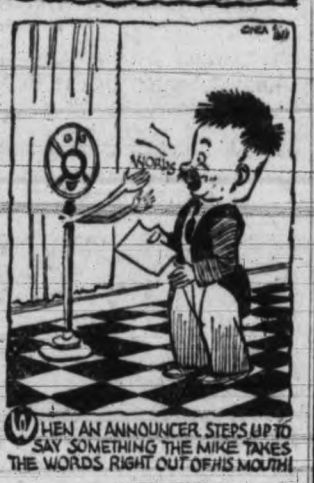

Victoria—High—Stipe, Scott, Macmurchie, L. Patrick, Chapman, Robson, Ferguson, Thorpe, M. Patrick, Bristowe, Levy, Loney, Upward, Sturrock and Pyke.

London, Jan. 22.—With only three dissenting votes, the lower house of the Canterbury Convocation of the Church of England to-day gave its approval to faith healing and asked it be given the official sanction of the church.

The approval took the form of a petition to the Archbishop of Canterbury, to request him to appoint a joint commission to frame a provisional service forunction by the imposition of hands, this service to be used until a permanent and fully authorized form can be issued under apostolical sanction.

The vote on the resolution followed several speeches in which Christian Science was called fantastic as a religious faith, yet was highly praised as the greatest means of faith healing.

The Canada Life keeps well ahead of the times, and its policy of "fair and square dealing," which began with its founding, eighty-four years ago, has been continuous.

Never has this Company contested a claim on a technicality, and from its inception it has paid dividends to policyholders every year.

Even during the Great War and Influenza epidemic, not one dollar of reduction in dividends was necessary, and for the past thirty-one years its high dividends to policyholders have never been reduced but, on the other hand, have frequently been increased.

Summary of Remarks of President, Mr. Leighton McCarthy at Annual Meeting of Canada Life

Canada's potential resources have not changed, and we are assured by our financiers that our basic conditions are sound. We therefore can surely look forward with courage and faith to a greater development and expansion, as soon as world conditions become settled.

Never before has life insurance been as large a factor as it is to-day. In no previous period, not excepting the War years and the influenza epidemic of 1918 and 1919, has it rendered a service so large, so immediate and so necessary as it has rendered in the year 1930. Its vast reserves have lessened the force and effect of the depression on all citizens, as well as upon the individual policyholders and beneficiaries directly benefited. It has been and is radiating confidence, dispelling fear and stimulating prosperity.

Life insurance statistics have been an outstanding source of encouragement. They have furnished striking evidence of the sound common sense of the people, their vision, courage and abiding confidence in the future.

Approximately one hundred and twenty-five billions of dollars of life insurance are now in force on this Continent, nearly seven billions of which are in Canada.

It is estimated that Canadian Companies paid approximately two hundred millions to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1930. Out of this sum one hundred and thirty-five millions were paid to living policyholders.

The Canada Life in 1930 passed the One Billion dollar mark of insurance in force. Surplus earnings of six million two hundred and sixty-eight thousand dollars in 1930 were the greatest in the Company's history. This surplus was earned after making appropriations for possible depreciation of any securities.

The investment policy of the Canada Life is founded upon security of principal, stability of earning power and diversification of investments.

Valued on the basis authorized by the Government, or even at the low of the year, the investments of the Canada Life show a very substantial surplus of market value over values at which the securities are taken into the statement. The special Contingent Reserves now amount to $1,658,000.

The total assets of the Company now exceed One hundred and eighty-eight million dollars, having increased in 1930 by Fourteen million four hundred and seventy-seven thousand dollars.

The new Head Office building is nearing completion, and will be occupied during the early part of 1931. It is urgently needed to accommodate the expanding business of the Company.

Farm Board Stabilizing To End With May Wheat; Pool Contracts Held Good

Washington, Jan. 22.—Stabilization operations are to end in May, McKelvie announced today, and the board will not buy the new crop.

"Only another emergency could cause renewed market operations," Mr. McKelvie said. "This is not a policy change, as the Farm Board has never intended to keep on purchasing indefinitely, and there is no reason to continue."

He said the board had no disposal plans.

Winnipeg, Jan. 22.—King's Bench Court here has finally sustained the wheat pool contracts with members.

Last summer's refusal of suits were brought for enforcement and damages against members refusing delivery when the new management took charge. Litigation was permitted to go by default except in one case, that was tried as a test.

The court has allowed damages and decided that the contracts are valid. In view of the new pool policy there was little interest displayed by the grain industry in the final conclusion, but it establishes that the $148,000 farm members are still bound by their pool affiliations.

Liverpool figures to-day placed the Argentine surplus at 200,000 bushels and the Australian surplus at 165,000 bushels. The Russian surplus is unknown.

"Millers in the southwest will be the chief beneficiaries of the plan to revive flour export trade through loans of Farm Board wheat, according to milling interests," the Chicago Tribune to-day says. "They declare it will be impossible to sell flour for export on the basis of Chicago July price because of foreign competition."

"Spring wheat millers are not affected by the plan, as they are supplying their export trade from flour milled from Canadian wheat in bond."

"Under normal conditions, United States exports about 1,000,000 barrels of flour a month, or the equivalent of about 50,000,000 bushels of wheat a year."

Chicago, Jan. 22.—A local observer figured out that on the basis of the movement of corn so far this month, the January arrivals locally would be around 2,500 cars, compared with a six-year average of around 6,700. Attention was also called to the average weight of corn coming forward, being four pounds in excess of last year and six pounds more than two years ago, suggesting feeding operations are heavy and that the corn is waiting to market rather than in box cars.

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, Jan. 22.—Wheat was quite firm during the first part of to-day's session. When prices advanced 1½¢ over the close last night, but most of this gain was lost around the noon hour, when the market turned very dull and Chicago wheat and corn showed decided weakness. There was moderate trade passing at the start, some buying by export and wire houses and some short covering.

Liverpool showed early firmness and Buenos Aires was 1 cent higher when this market opened. Argentine weather reports continue unfavorable with further showers and generally unsettled and private cables stated that damage to the crop was taking place with the wheat sprouting in some districts. Broomhall reported that there had been no relief in the drought, which prevails in northern India, and every day makes the situation more precarious in this large wheat producing section of India. Export sales over night out of the market from 400,000 to 500,000 bushels, but the indications were that total Canadian sales were larger than these figures with a fair business going on from Vancouver. Liverpool closed easy, being ½¢ lower to ¾¢ higher with a very ordinary milling demand reported.

The local cash demand keeps quiet, and only odd cars and small lots are changing hands. Offerings continued light, and spreads unchanged. If anything there was a slight improvement in the flour situation. Russian wheat shipments this week are only 232,000 bushels, while those from Argentina are estimated at 2,750,000 bushels. Country marketings in the west yesterday 644,000 bushels against 2,232,000 a year ago.

It was semi-officially announced that the U.S. Farm Board will not support the wheat market for the new crop, but there are indications that acreage in the United States and Canada will be sharply reduced. Winnipeg futures closed ½¢ to ¾¢ higher.

WHITNEY LETTER

New York, Jan. 22.—Whitney of the Wall Street Financial Bureau says:

OUTLOOK UNCHANGED

"Yesterday's market has worked out pretty well in line with prediction to the extent that the average stock found itself unable to sustain its early gains throughout the entire day, the net results of the day's work being an 'average' closing of about one and a half points down. The reason for this inability to sustain the advance of the previous day is nothing new as it was pointed out here yesterday morning that as a rally based on short covering, Tuesday had carried the market about as far as it should go. The balance of the prediction called for a fairly well maintained market during the day yesterday, but one which would not carry sufficiently far to avoid a renewal of bottom testing in the following session which brings us to today. What necessitates the maintenance of a suspicion regarding the ability of the market's bottom to hold has been more or less predicated here on the amount and type of corporate reports we are being confronted with from day to day over a period of the next four or five weeks.

"It is particularly noticeable as a current development of the market that recent and present predictions of what corporations will earn in the fourth quarter and full year of 1930 are actually appearing at figures materially below the estimates which have certainly been made low enough in themselves so that the further reduction makes rather poor reading. An example of this is to be found in the last quarter outlook for U.S. Steel, which was recently expressed here as pointing to about $1 a share, but which, according to reports from what are usually considered reliable sources, will show only between 30 cents and 40 cents. It may be well that what remains of this bear market was little if any more of the pressing type of liquidation, but while this type of news is making its appearance we are certainly not going to get enough income to concerned buying to move the market sagging lower. If in fact the right buying is ready to come in at all until it has had a good chance to look into the possibilities of the first quarter of this year and make up its mind as to the advisability of coming into the market.

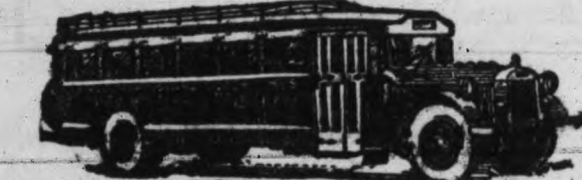

"For the present, therefore, we appear to be simply in a market which, due to the absence of any large sized liquidation, runs into periodical dullness on the down side with this dullness in turn creating just enough nervousness on the part of shorts to bring about the type of covering movement which accounted for the two-day rally we had this week. Having had it, we would point rather plainly to another try out of the bottom during which time you are certainly better away from the long side of the market."

Northern Rails Hold Earnings

New York, Jan. 22.—Wall Street Journal says: Aided by increased nonoperating income, both Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railway will report share earnings for 1930 not far below results for 1929. Great Northern is likely to show slightly more than $8 a share and Northern Pacific slightly above $7.05 a share. A principal factor in comparatively favorable earnings of these roads in 1930 was the $5 a share extra dividend by the jointly owned C.B. & Q. Railroad. This $5 extra, plus the regular $10 annual rate paid by the C.B. & Q. was sufficient to "take care" of the full year's dividends on the Northern stocks. Each Northern road owns 830,179 Burlington shares.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Husband and Father Who Repents Having Left His Family for a Gold-Digger—Does the Engaged Girl Owe It to Her Fiance Not to See Other Men?

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a married man, sixty-five years old. Some time ago I left my wife with the intention of getting a divorce and marrying a girl scarcely out of her teens. Now I realize that her attraction for me was only physical, and I am tired of her and want to return to my family, but the girl threatens to expose our past relations if I give her up. I wish I could get down on my knees and acknowledge my wrong doings and return to my loved ones. What shall I do?
WORRIED HUSBAND.

Answer—My earnest advice to you is to hasten at once to your wife and grovel at her feet and beg her forgiveness and ask her to take you back. Perhaps out of that divine compassion and understanding that so many women are able to show toward their erring husbands, she will wash off the slate with her tears and start your score all over again.

That will be your great good luck and not because you deserve it. Nor will things ever be quite the same again. By your conduct you have forfeited your wife's and children's trust and respect and nothing that you can do will ever regain it. There is no way for the prodigal husband and father to climb back on the pedestal that he has once kicked over.

Don't let your little gold-digging flapper keep you from going back and trying to make amends to your family. There is nothing that she can tell that your friends and neighbors do not already know or guess. People who have illicit love affairs are like the traditional ostrich that buries its head in the sand and thinks it is hidden, but they fool nobody but themselves. Everybody gossips about them and scandalizes them. Besides, paying blackmail is a losing game because there is never an end to it.

When we see, as we so often do, a middle-aged or elderly man forsaking his wife and breaking up his home because he has become fascinated with some mercenary little chit of a girl young enough to be his daughter or his granddaughter, our sympathy always goes out to the poor deserted wife.

But, really, if we have tears to shed, the one to weep over is the poor deluded man who is bringing upon himself far greater misery than his wife will ever know. For she, at least, has the sympathy of the community in which she lives. She has her own self-respect and she has the consolation of her children, while the man, when his brief dream is over and the cruel awakening comes, has nothing but the realization of his folly and the contempt of all who know him.

When it is all over, the man knows that he has been worked like any sucker, and that he has fallen for a line so crude that even a blind man should have seen that he was being worked. How he could have stood for all of the flattery about being so young and handsome and having more pep than any of the boys he cannot understand. How he let her wheedle diamond bracelets and fur coats out of him with baby talk and kisses, he doesn't know. Why he should ever have believed, even for an instant, that a girl in her teens loved a man in his fifties or sixties for anything but his pocketbook, he can't comprehend.

But he was a sap. He thought he preferred this pretty young heartless and brainless creature to the wife who had been his friend and comfort for twenty-five or thirty years. He thought he loved this little mercenary more than he did his own children. He thought that if he married a mere child he would miraculously become a boy again himself.

But nothing of the kind happened. He found out that no young girl loves an old man, and that the girl who was willing to sell herself for money collects the price every time. He found that they had nothing in common, not a thought nor an idea, and that they bored each other to extinction. And he found out that no man knows how old he really is until he tries to dance attendance on a young wife who has married to get a good time and is bound to have it.

Watch the old husbands with their weary eyes and sagging faces sitting meek and forlorn at tables at night clubs while their young wives are dancing with slick-haired boys of their own age. Listen to the young wife's taunting remarks about husband's old-fashioned ideas. Note the insolence with which she makes him realize that he is only good as a bill-payer. That is the answer to the problem of the old husband and the young second wife.

It is a losing trade to swap old wives for new, and there is not one man in a thousand who does it who doesn't bitterly regret it, and who wouldn't crawl back to his old wife on his hands and knees if he could.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a man of thirty engaged to a young lady nine years my junior. Somehow or other we differ in our views pertaining to our engagement. To me an engagement is just as sacred as marriage and I never go with other girls. She works and on several occasions when she has been compelled to stay late at the office she has been escorted home by one of her male associates. Recently she received an expensive piece of jewelry from one of the men in her office in appreciation of her services. I objected to this and spoke to her about it, and she replied: "Remember I am not married yet." She feels that as long as she is not breaking any dates with me she is free to do as she pleases on her off nights. On account of my having lost my job it is indefinite when we can be married. What is your idea of the obligations of an engagement?

TAD.

Answer—I think that the difference between an engagement and a marriage should be the difference between an option and a trade that is closed. I think the engagement tie should be so loose that either party can break it at will if for any reason he or she decides that the party of the other part does not prove to be so desirable as he or she looked at a distance, and that there should be no alimony thrown on the one who breaks the engagement.

An engagement should be merely a relationship in which a man and a woman who are attracted to each other can have a chance to get really acquainted with each other and take the measure of each other's character and disposition better than they could in a casual acquaintanceship. For in the engagement they would have matrimony in mind and would not be saying, "Oh, well, John or Mary is a dandy dancing partner, or good fun on a party, or nice enough to spend an evening or two with a week." They would be saying: "See here, I'm thinking of tying up with John or Mary for the balance of my life and there isn't going to be much dancing or partying in it, but a lot of work and worry, so how about it?"

"Is John the sort of man a woman can lean on, or will he be a broken reed? Is he generous and thoughtful, or selfish and overbearing? Is Mary the kind of woman who will meet the trials of wifehood and motherhood with her head up, or will she be a quitter? Will she nag me for my faults or laugh them off?"

These are the kind of things that people have a chance to find out in an engagement, and if John and Mary don't measure up to standard, there should be no trouble in returning them to the bargain counter. If more engagements were broken, fewer marriages would end in divorce.

Because I believe that an engagement should be a flexible affair I think that girls and boys should keep up their social contacts with other youths and maidens, so that in the event the engagement is broken off the girl is not left stranded, with no other man in sight. Many a man marries a girl of whom he tired because he has been engaged to her so long that she doesn't even know any other men and he feels that he has to make good because he is her only chance as a husband.

The free engagement would not militate against the faithfulness of a couple who were really in love with each other. It would only give the fickle-minded a chance to find out the state of their affections before marriage instead of afterwards. And that certainly would be for the good of all concerned.

LANDSLIDES CAUSE ALARM

Bilbao, Spain, Jan. 22.—Landslides in the Oca region, near Bilbao, are causing great alarm among the inhabitants. Engineers building a road between Moravia and Carrick had to change their projected route because of heavy slides and subsequent sinkings. Several million cubic metres of land have caved in, they estimate.

DOROTHY MACKAIL SEEN IN DOMESTIC DRAMA AT DOMINION

The story of "The Office Wife," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone picture now at the Dominion Theatre, to-day and Friday, is one that should interest every wife and every husband. It is a vital drama that might confront any man and any woman.
Lawrence Fellows, president of a publishing firm, believes that every wife is jealous of her husband's secretary, and every secretary is jealous of the wife. He marries—and finds out later that every wife is not jealous of her husband's secretary. While he is becoming attached to his secretary, Anne Murdock, his wife, Linda, begins a flirtation with a young man of her acquaintance. Fellows does not know that his wife is falling in love with Jameson, and he does not know that Miss Murdock is falling in love with him. He only knows that he needs her—and when he goes away, he finds he has to send for her.

ENGLISH BEAUTY IS SEEN IN "BALACLAVA" ON COLISEUM SCREEN

Benita Hume, the noted English screen beauty, plays the leading feminine role in "BalACLAVA," the Columbia all-talking picture, now showing at the Coliseum Theatre.
Miss Hume is one of England's foremost actresses, but, from recent newspaper stories, it appears that she has been signed up on a long-term contract by a United States producer.
At present she is costarring with Ivor Novello in a Broadway stage success, "Symphony in Two Flats," which, prior to its New York engagement, had a long and successful run in London.

SUE CAROL STARRING IN ZANE GREY STORY HERE AT COLUMBIA

Sue Carol is no longer a "flapper."
She is an unsophisticated girl of the mountains and plans in "The Lone Star Ranger," Fox Movietone all-talking melodrama of the south, to be adapted from Zane Grey's widely read book, and the current feature of the Columbia Theatre.
Miss Carol plays opposite George O'Brien, who enacts the leading role of Buck Duane, a man of might, in a background of powerful passions. She appears as Mary Aldridge, about whom most of the romance of this out-of-doors epic revolves.

St. Barnabas Meeting Held

The annual vestry meeting of St.
Barnabas Church, held recently, was well attended. Rev. N. E. Smith, the rector, presided. The churchwardens' statement and other reports were satisfactory and the rector paid tribute to all who aided in the various branches of the church's work.
The rector again appointed G. E.
Norris as his warden, and W. F. Dyer was elected people's warden by acclamation.

The church committee will be Mrs.
Bassett, Miss E. M. Roberts, and Messrs.
Gosnell, Read, Bannerman, Gedrim, Sharpe, Locke, Beneman and Skinner.
Delegates to the synod will be H. R.
Pattinson, G. E. Norris and R. E. V.
Yerburgh; substitutes, Messrs. Dyer,
Read and Dr. J. E. Watson.
Delegates elected to the Russian Conference were Mrs. E. M.
Roberts, Dr. J. E. Watson and Mr.
Bannerman.

SOUND TECHNIQUE OF "HELL'S ANGELS" IS EXTREMELY GOOD

"Hell's Angels," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, has marked a new step in the development and presentation of sound technique on the screen.
Electrical experts are generally agreed that the Howard Hughes spectacle is not only the finest example of sound reproduction to date, but a step forward as well in the presentation of magnified sound on the screen.

"Hell's Angels" is believed to be the first film spectacle in which there are no faded sounds. Its audible effects, in fact, are so authentic throughout that special projection machinery is required to present the picture with proper emphasis on the screen.

Actual planes were used in recording the sound for the air scenes of "Hell's Angels," a technical feat in itself, as it was necessary to send microphones in the air by planes and balloons to obtain authentic sound.

VERA REYNOLDS, NOW AT PLAYHOUSE, SAYS SHE IS AIR-MINDED

"You don't have to be flighty to be air-minded," remarked Vera Reynolds, the charming young lady who is cast as the heroine of Tiffany's farce-melodrama, "Borrowed Wives," showing to-day at the Playhouse Theatre.
Vera had just stepped out of an airplane. "I'm air-minded. I'd ride in anything that looks like an airplane. I love to fly, and I have made many trips as a passenger, but now that the thrill is wearing off on that,
I am studying to be a pilot myself.
My greatest ambition at the moment is to have several hours solo flying to my credit."

idge, of Victoria, spent the week-end

Vancouver General Hospital.

MOVIE CZARS CURB STARS TEMPERAMENT

"Gentlemen's Agreement" to Bar Outbursts of Fractious Stars

"High Hat" Screen Actors and Actresses Become Mild Boys and Girls

Hollywood, Jan. 22.—"Flog them," advises Major Treatt, "that'll curb their temperaments." "So needless and so strenuous," yawn the Hollywood motion picture producers. "There are so many other ways. Just bid them scooby and goody into the studio to other faces. Then watch the reaction.
Back they come with, 'Aw, wait a minute. I was just foolin'.'"

The day of temperamental outbursts from screen actresses in Hollywood is over, and there haven't been any floggings. But some of the most widely known stars are on the outside looking in, while others have learned to say "Yes, sir," and take their assignments and stories with grace. There are too many beautiful girls waiting to get in the movies to bother now with temperaments.

The middle of last summer, Janet Gaynor was in Hawaii. And she had a "mad." She did not want to go to the Fox Company had arranged for her and she promptly and vociferously said so. She resented the fact that she was not given credit for the merit award offered by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Won by her preceding year. She was good and she knew it. She would not take anything but the best of stories. Nothing offered her compared with her "Seventh Heaven," which she made with Charlie Farrell.

JANET GAYNOR INCIDENT
"I won't do them," she exclaimed
petulantly, when the new schedule was offered.

As this seemed to be final, Winfield Sheehan, in charge of production said, a few days later, "We have eighteen pictures scheduled. Not one of them mentions Miss Gaynor."

A week or two thereafter an ocean liner, headed the way into Los Angeles Harbor and a worried little actress came down the gangplank. Before long she was in "Winnie" Sheehan's office. "You can do them," Mr.
Sheehan said, "or else."

There is a gentlemen's agreement among motion picture producers that they will not hire an actress away from another company when there is a dispute.

Janet had a long talk with Mr.
Sheehan. Next day her things were moved back into her old dressing-room bungalow. She's been a good girl ever since.

Possibly the greatest example of taming an actress (without flogging) was in the case of Joan Crawford.
Word was passed to Joan a year or two ago that if she continued progressing she was in line for stardom.
Whereupon Joan went "high hat."

Late for appointments, "ratty" toward department heads, a lofty attitude in the presence of men featured players.
She became "Miss Crawford," the coming star. Then came the taming.
Louis M. Mayer, vice-president of the Metro organization called her into his office. "Joan," he said, "we have selected you for a new leading role.
It's a nice role where you'll have little competition. Or words to that effect. "Yes," quipped the coming star. "Indeed we have. You will play opposite Col. Tim McCoy in "Winners of the Wilderness." It's a western melodrama."

COLLEEN MOORE OUT
Right on the chin she took it. Not an assignment in some gorgeous production where she would wear expensive gowns and jewels and be a sophisticate, but a role in a lowly western where there would be a stage coach and easily homes and lots of shooting in the hills. And she would wear a gingham dress and a bonnet.
She wasn't asked if she would play the part. She was assigned to it. She could take it or leave it. Leaving it meant the finish. Joan played the part but played it with tears in her eyes. She learned her lesson. She's one of the most amiable of actresses to-day.
